TACHEN EVACUATION TASK NEARS SUCCESSFUL CLOSE

New AFL-CIO Combine To Recruit Millions

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The nation's top union leaders, agreed on consolidating forces into a single organization, today planned a giant drive to take in millions of new members with the plastics industry as a first target.

Leaders of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations decided to bury traditional rivalries and embark on the same sort of intensive mass organizing campaign that sparked the CIO's surge two decades ago.

The AFL and CIO chiefs worked out what appeared to be an ironclad arrangement to merge into a powerful union federation which already has 15 million members.

A long series of ratifying actions still was required to solemnize the wedding, but declarations of intentions from principals appeared convincing. Both George Meany, top man in the AFL, and Walter Reuther, CIO chief, predicted the merger would be an accomplished fact before the end of the year.

They said a well-financed organizing drive to take in new members would be launched and where unions in the same general field would be combined to make more effective their bargaining and political powers.

An initial organizing goal was the chemicals and plastics industries. A field where combining rival unions appeared most likely was in the textile industry where relatively weak AFL and CIO unions have largely neutralized each other for years.

There was no way of anticipating whether the apparently stronger union setup would bring on bigger or longer labor strikes, but it was apparent that AFL and CIO leaders felt their hand would be strengthened in dealing with employers.

In arranging the merger agreement yesterday the union chiefs accustomed to hard horsetrading with employers, played a give-and-take role with each other.

The AFL was given the top jobs in the new setup. Meany was assured of the presidency and AFL Secretary - treasurer William Schnitzler will have the same title in the merged federation.

The CIO won the right to enter the AFL as a union group and to organize entire plants from top to bottom in individual unions without regard for AFL crafts.

In addition, it was agreed that the leadership for the ambitious new member organizing activities would come from the CIO.

The key question of whether unions would be allowed to "raid" or seize each other's already-organized members was left open.

Reuther wanted a definite police system to stop this, but it was agreed only that "raiding" was a disease which ought to be discouraged.

The merger agreement contained intentions to include guarantees in the new constitution that would prevent racial discrimination among unions and effectively deal with union racketeers.

Cigaret, Liquor Taxes May Go Up

New Revenue Measures Filed By GOP Solons In Legislature

COLUMBUS (AP)—New taxes on cigarets and liquor loomed today for the people of Ohio.

The new taxes, 150 per cent on liquor and 50 per cent on cigarets, were in the offing despite "no-new-taxes" pledges by Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche and some Republican leaders.

The taxes, estimated to produce $150 million in revenue in the next six years, apparently were the Republican answer to Lausche's proposal for a multi-million-dollar bond issue to finance new mental hospitals and prisons.

The proposals introduced in the Ohio House yesterday would increase the state's 2-cents-a-package tax on cigarets to three cents, and boost the state's $1-a-gallon tax on 100-proof liquor to $2.50, about 30 cents a fifth.

The tax-increase measures had all the earmarks of Republican policy, but all concerned were careful to put a "personal opinion" tag on them. They were introduced in the House by Reps. Samuel L. Devine (R-Franklin) and Robert L. Johnson (R-Medina).

They also proposed creation of a division of capital improvements planning to map construction of state institutions and keep it six years ahead of actual building.

* * *

MOST CAPITAL improvements in the past have been financed out of the state's treasury surplus every two years.

Their bills were among 119 proposed laws introduced yesterday as legislators continued the stretch drive toward the bill introduction deadline next Monday night. With two more legislative days to go, legislators have introduced 793 bills, still far short of the 1,178 in the 1953 session.

The Senate's action in observing its first bill deadline in 16 years may be having its desired effect in reducing the number of "cats and dogs" bills before the General Assembly. Minor measures have been conspicuous by their absence.

Legislators ended their sixth work week today by dumping another batch of bills in the Legislative hopper.

Five bills were passed by the two houses yesterday, four by the Senate and one by the House.

The bill drawing chief interest was a measure providing $50 to $500 fines for those who refuse to yield a party-line telephone in an emergency and similar penalties for those who make fake emergency claims.

High spots among the measures offered yesterday included bills and resolutions to:

Carry out Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill's recommendations to control illegal narcotics traffic with stiffer penalties.

Set a $50 fine for tossing beer bottles and trash along highways.

Set a 60 m.p.h. limit on state highways; 65 on turnpikes.

Increase county commissioners' salaries with a minimum of $3,000 instead of $2,000.

Appropriate $1,450,000 for improvements at Gallipolis State Institute.

AT an historic meeting in Miami Beach, AFL president George Meany (left) and CIO head Walter Reuther (right) shake hands after agreeing to merge their two labor organizations. The agreement ends a bitter 20-year split and unites 15 million members. The new organization, as yet unnamed, will probably be headed by Meany. The agreement must be ratified by the two groups in convention. Man in the center is David McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers.

Defense Setup Being Blasted Into Rubble

End Of U. S.-Aided Job May Be Completed By End Of Current Week

TAIPEI (AP)—The evacuation of the Tachen Islands is going along smoothly, is ahead of schedule and may be completed by the end of this week.

Chiang Kai-shek's forces blasted and burned a maze of underground defense works and shuttled tons of ammunition and supplies to rocky beaches in the high-speed final phase of the evacuation.

U. S. 7th Fleet warships churned the East China Sea around the island and jets swept overhead protecting the critical military withdrawal.

Civilians already had been removed. Most of the refugees are on the Nationalist bastion of Formosa 200 miles to the south.

Nationalist sources said the withdrawal had been completed on three outlying islands, the Yu Shan group 35 miles northeast and Pishan 32 miles southwest of the Tachens.

The government announced a decision to pull out civilians on Nanchishan, 80 miles south of the Tachens. But official quarters said the military garrison would remain there and probably would be strengthened to maintain the island as a northern shield for Formosa.

On the Tachens, Nationalist troops were blasting into uselessness a labyrinth of caves and tunnels.

* * *

BROWN-CLAD soldiers sloshed through the mud, lugging boxed mortar shells, hand grenades and machine guns which never will be used to defend this northernmost outpost.

In the choppy, brown muddy waters off the Tachens beaches, small landing boats maneuvered around the burned hulk of a long LST sunk by the Communists in a shallow water during a bombing before the evacuation started.

Hard-bitten Rear Adm. Lorenzo Sherwood Sabin Jr. squinted at the LST and the empty villages of the Tachens from under his two-star helmet and said:

"I hope this is the last piece of real estate we give away to the Communists."

Chinese reports quoted the Nationalist commander of the Tachens, Gen. Liu Lien-yi, as regretting that his forces had not been permitted to make a stand against the Reds. Liu said his force there had been powerful, confident, well equipped, strongly dug in and capable of repulsing any invasion.

Army's Manpower Cuts Hit By Dems

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts urged the administration today to reconsider proposed Army manpower cuts and said 95 per cent of House Democrats are opposed to them.

"It is a dangerous thing," he said, "to think that one man is possessed of all knowledge in one field. It could be a terrible thing for our country if the President is wrong."

Sen. Russell (D-Ga) said some senators also "are greatly disturbed," but that there probably is little Congress can do unless "we want to impeach the President, and everybody knows that is not going to happen." He also urged reappraisal of the cuts.

President Eisenhower has said he made the final decision on the extent of manpower reductions, which propose mid - 1956 armed forces of 2,850,000 men, compared with more than three million now. The bulk of the cut, 173,000 men, would be in the Army.

* * *

THE SENATE Armed Services Committee, which Russell heads, spent nearly six hours yesterday questioning Secretary of Defense Wilson and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, about the reductions.

Wilson said he sees no reason to revise the plans because of the shift in Soviet Russia's leaders, and he added: "That's the President's position too." Wilson said the program will provide "an adequate defense structure for the United States on a long-term basis."

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee reiterated his support for the President's program.

But McCormack said that in view of developments ranging from the Soviet political change to the Formosan situation, "I cannot understand how any leadership would not immediately reconsider the proposed reduction of the Army and Navy."

Representatives Brooks (D - La) and Winstead (D-Miss) also threw their support to demands for a reappraisal of the program after hearing what they described as a second warning by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

The Army chief of staff told a House subcommittee yesterday that only active forces could supply needed Army units at the outbreak of war. Earlier, he had testified the decision to cut the Army "jeopardizes our security."

Experts Doubt Red Advantage

H-Bomb Shortcut Seen Back Of Soviet Boast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's boast that Russia holds superiority in hydrogen bomb development may refer to discovery in 1953 of a short-cut method for triggering the blast.

But if that was the case, American officials are confident any temporary advantage the Soviets held has since been overcome.

In some atomic circles here there is a suspicion that Soviet nuclear physicists evolved a technique for setting off hydrogen bombs through heat - producing compression of a high magnitude which required only insignificant amounts of the fissionable material used in conventional A-bombs.

There is the possibility that the Russian technique was perfected almost a year before American weaponeers worked out the problem, and may have been tested in the summer of 1953.

* * *

ANY SOVIET lead made possible by that process, involving a huge saving in time and material, has been overcome and the over - all program of the United States now has moved out ahead again, in the opinion of some American experts.

In a speech Tuesday, Molotov said the Soviet Union has developed hydrogen weapons with "such success that the United States could appear backward."

President Eisenhower was asked yesterday at his news conference about the Molotov statement. The President replied there was no proof to that effect, then added it would be a rather remarkable feat.

More Families Worshipping Together Now

CINCINNATI (AP)—More and more families are worshipping together on Sundays instead of attending separate Sabbath services.

Dr. Randolph C. Miller of Yale Divinity School today called this increase the "most successful single development" in the church's program to provide a ministry to the needs of the family as a unit.

The unified service is "not an adult service at which children are tolerated, but rather one in which parents and children discover that they can share their common growth, common resources and common loyalties," he said.

The professor of Christian education spoke at the annual assembly of the Division of Christian Education of the National Council of Churches. More than 1,600 representatives of 39 cooperating Protestant communions are attending sessions.

Dr. Miller said unified services usually last about 35 minutes and then are followed by classes according to age groups.

A trend in Sunday school education, he said, is the use of husband and wife teams as teachers.

"Both theologically and psychologically, this is a sound development," he said. "It may also help to overcome the distaste that many boys have for a feminine-flavored religion."

Judge Changes Mind Second Time In Case

CLEVELAND (AP) — A common pleas judge, rectifying what he called his own error, sentenced three men to prison yesterday for grand larceny.

It was the second time the judge reversed himself in the case.

The three defendants, each given a one to seven year term, were August J. Scalia, 35, Frank Evola, 34, and Alexander Demkowicz.

Judge Parker Fulton, who passed sentence, also banished Defense Attorney Anthony C. Carlin from his courtroom in all future cases.

The judge then invited the lawyer to begin proceedings to remove him (Fulton) from the bench. Carlin refused the suggestion but said he would appeal the judge's latest ruling on grounds his clients were being illegally imprisoned.

The defendants, after pleading guilty to larceny in the theft of some New York Central Railroad freight, were given one to seven year sentences by Fulton last Jan. 7.

A week later Fulton vacated sentences, allowing them to change their pleas to innocent.

Judge Fulton explained yesterday he had no legal authority to permit the change of pleas, and therefore was ordering the original sentence into execution.

Carlin told reporters the original sentence violated an understanding he made with the judge and Assistant County Prosecutor Harvey R. Monck that the defendants would be given short jail terms if they pleaded guilty.

Zhukov Invite Not Expected

Time Not Ripe For Ike To Host Red General

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower may invite Russia's Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov to visit him someday, but the experts are not betting on it.

There are too many problems, hostilities and suspicions between Moscow and Washington to make such an invitation possible now.

One of the President's associates said he does not see "a chance in a million" for such an invitation. State Department officials label the idea "premature."

Yet diplomats said that in some special future circumstances the friendship which developed between Eisenhower and Zhukov when they were Allied military leaders in Berlin at the end of World War II might prove useful to both countries.

Zhukov moved into the spotlight yesterday when he was appointed defense minister of the Soviet Union. A few years ago under the late Joseph Stalin he had apparently been banished from Moscow.

* * *

EISENHOWER yesterday paid warm tribute to Zhukov as a military leader and confirmed that each of them had told the other he was sure his country would not attack the other's homeland.

The President himself indicated the improbability of a visit under present conditions. He commented that "this would be a remarkable thing at the present state of affairs." He added that he "certainly wouldn't hesitate" to talk over with his advisers the problem of an invitation "if we found it desirable."

Car Insurance Rates To Drop Next Week

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Bureau of Casualty Insurers, an insurance rating organization, has filed substantial automobile liability premium reductions with the state insurance department.

Ray H. Miller, bureau manager, said premiums, going into effect Feb. 16, will save Ohio policyholders of subscriber companies more than $3 million annually. The reductions range from 10 to 17 per cent and apply to all territories in the state, applicable also to call classes of private passenger car risks, subject to certain exceptions. The female driver under age 25 has been removed from the higher rated classification, and now will be written at the premium applicable to a driver over age 25.

The action also provides that a male driver under 25 who has completed a recognized driver training course will be given a 15 per cent credit on his automobile liability premium.

The Ohio insurance companies represented by the bureau include Automobile Club Insurance Co., Beacon Mutual Indemnity Co., Buckeye Union Fire Insurance Co., Celina Mutual Insurance Co., Cincinnati Insurance Co., Merchants' & Manufacturers' Mutual Insurance Co., Ohio Casualty Insurance Co., Ohio Farmers Indemnity Co., Ohio Farmers Insurance Co., Ohio Valley Automobile Insurance Co., Republic Indemnity, Shelby Mutual State Automobile Mutual and Western Reserve Mutual.

Phone 'Hogs' Getting Raps In Assembly

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Senate yesterday voted to curb telephone party-line "hogs."

With only one dissenting vote, the Senate passed a bill slapping $50 to $500 fines on persons who refuse to yield party-line phones in cases of police, fire or medical emergencies.

The bill now goes to the House where a warm welcome awaits it.

Sen. Delbert Latta (R-Hancock), the author, told the Senate his proposal was based on a long history of inconsiderate and "long-winded" party-line users who kept talking even though their neighbors' houses were burning down.

Latta cited instances last year in Hancock, Ross and Licking counties where property damage or personal injury resulted when party-line subscribers refused to relinquish phone lines.

The bill provides stiff penalties also for persons who make fake claims of emergencies in order to obtain use of telephone lines.

The only vote against the bill was by Sen. Joseph Avellone (D-Cuyahoga), who was dissatisfied with Latta's explanation the measure does not condone wire-tapping or other wise do violence to a citizen's civil rights.

Arctic Air Mass Ending Brief 'Spring'

CHICAGO (AP) — Arctic air and northerly winds headed into the mid-continent today, ending a brief spell of "spring" weather.

The big mass of cold air from Canada sent temperatures tumbling sharply over the Great Plains from the Canadian border all the way to Oklahoma. There were strong northerly winds and some snow.

The cold air moved slowly in turning east but falling temperatures gradually extended southeastward across the upper Great Lakes region.

It was 20 degrees below zero early today in Dickinson, N. D., compared to yesterday morning's 12 above. Frigid air and strong winds were forecast for most of the north central region.

The belt of light snow extended from the Great Lakes region across the Central Plains to the Rockies. No other wet spots were reported.

Mild winter weather continued over most of the East and South.

Goodyear Union Parley Continues

CINCINNATI (AP)—Negotiators for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. and the CIO United Rubber Workers Union worked today to complete a new master contract before the present one expires at midnight tonight.

A new agreement, or failure to reach one, would affect 25,000 Goodyear workers in 10 plants.

Company and union negotiators declined to discuss progress of the talks, following the traditional pattern in the rubbery industry not to give out statements while negotiations are in progress.

Pinay Abandons Bid For Cabinet

PARIS (AP) — Former Premier Antoine Pinay abandoned his efforts to form France's 21st post-war government today. President Rene Coty announced he would start new consultations seeking a political leader capable of winning majority Assembly support.

Pinay went to the Elysee Palace to announce his withdrawal after first communicating his decision to a meeting of Conservative leaders supporting him. The Cabinet crisis started with Premier Pierre Mendes-France's resignation last Saturday after he was defeated on an Assembly confidence vote.

Solon Visits Clinic, Sees Prayer Need

COLUMBUS (AP)—State Sen. Wilbur L. Shull (R-Franklin) visited Longview State Hospital at Cincinnati Tuesday.

Yesterday he introduced a bill in the Ohio Senate to establish a room for prayer and meditation in the Ohio Statehouse.

He said there was a direct connection between his proposal and his visit to Longview.

"I never dreamed conditions like those at Longview existed anywhere in the world," Shull commented. "I truly feel those who have first-hand knowledge of such things need to have a place where we can meditate and pray."

He did not elaborate on conditions at Longview.

'56 Newspaper Fairness Test Being Urged

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Norman E. Isaacs, managing editor of the Louisville (Ky.) Times, today proposed a nationwide study of the performance of newspapers in the 1956 presidential campaign.

He suggested a committee be organized to make the study, and urged newspapers to demonstrate to the nation "that we who use editorial columns and power of printing presses to criticize others are willing to be weighed on our total performance in the 'goldfish bowl' which we advocate for all others."

Isaacs said some newspapers conducted themselves in "vulgar and boorish displays of one-sidedness" in the 1952 campaign.

He declared the majority of newspapers acted with fairness, but "some were guilty of campaigning in news space and some were guilty of news suppressions."

His speech was at the sixth annual William Allen White Lecture at the University of Kansas. Isaacs, a newspaperman since 1926, was president of the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. in 1953 and currently heads the APME Freedom of Information Committee.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee reiterated his support for the President's program.

But McCormack said that in view of developments ranging from the Soviet political change to the Formosan situation, "I cannot understand how any leadership would not immediately reconsider the proposed reduction of the Army and Navy."

Representatives Brooks (D - La) and Winstead (D-Miss) also threw their support to demands for a reappraisal of the program after hearing what they described as a second warning by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

The Army chief of staff told a House subcommittee yesterday that only active forces could supply needed Army units at the outbreak of war. Earlier, he had testified the decision to cut the Army "jeopardizes our security."

Car Insurance Rates To Drop Next Week

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Bureau of Casualty Insurers, an insurance rating organization, has filed substantial automobile liability premium reductions with the state insurance department.

Ray H. Miller, bureau manager, said premiums, going into effect Feb. 16, will save Ohio policyholders of subscriber companies more than $3 million annually. The reductions range from 10 to 17 per cent and apply to all territories in the state, applicable also to call classes of private passenger car risks, subject to certain exceptions. The female driver under age 25 has been removed from the higher rated classification, and now will be written at the premium applicable to a driver over age 25.

The action also provides that a male driver under 25 who has completed a recognized driver training course will be given a 15 per cent credit on his automobile liability premium.

The Ohio insurance companies represented by the bureau include Automobile Club Insurance Co., Beacon Mutual Indemnity Co., Buckeye Union Casualty Co., Buckeye Union Fire Insurance Co., Celina Mutual Insurance Co., Cincinnati Insurance Co., Merchants' & Manufacturers' Mutual Insurance Co., Ohio Casualty Insurance Co., Ohio Farmers Indemnity Co., Ohio Farmers Insurance Co., Ohio Valley Automobile Insurance Co., Republic Indemnity, Shelby Mutual State Automobile Mutual and Western Reserve Mutual.

Solon Visits Clinic, Sees Prayer Need

COLUMBUS (AP)—State Sen. Wilbur L. Shull (R-Franklin) visited Longview State Hospital at Cincinnati Tuesday.

Yesterday he introduced a bill in the Ohio Senate to establish a room for prayer and meditation in the Ohio Statehouse.

He said there was a direct connection between his proposal and his visit to Longview.

"I never dreamed conditions like those at Longview existed anywhere in the world," Shull commented. "I truly feel those who have first-hand knowledge of such things need to have a place where we can meditate and pray."

He did not elaborate on conditions at Longview.

Flu-Like Epidemic Hits Toledo Area

TOLEDO (AP)—Health authorities reported about 30 per cent of this area's high school pupils were out of school yesterday because of a flu-like epidemic.

Parents were urged to keep their children home from school if they show any cold or stomach disorder symptoms.

Dr. Walter Hartung, city health commissioner, announced the city water supply had been tested and found pure. Some rumors had been circulated blaming the widespread illness on water.

Experts Doubt Red Advantage

H-Bomb Shortcut Seen Back Of Soviet Boast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's boast that Russia holds superiority in hydrogen bomb development may refer to discovery in 1953 of a short-cut method for triggering the blast.

But if that was the case, American officials are confident any temporary advantage the Soviets held has since been overcome.

In some atomic circles here there is a suspicion that Soviet nuclear physicists evolved a technique for setting off hydrogen bombs through heat - producing compression of a high magnitude which required only insignificant amounts of the fissionable material used in conventional A-bombs.

There is the possibility that the Russian technique was perfected almost a year before American weaponeers worked out the problem, and may have been tested in the summer of 1953.

* * *

ANY SOVIET lead made possible by that process, involving a huge saving in time and material, has been overcome and the over - all program of the United States now has moved out ahead again, in the opinion of some American experts.

In a speech Tuesday, Molotov said the Soviet Union has developed hydrogen weapons with "such success that the United States could appear backward."

President Eisenhower was asked yesterday at his news conference about the Molotov statement. The President replied there was no proof to that effect, then added it would be a rather remarkable feat.

Phone 'Hogs' Getting Raps In Assembly

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Senate yesterday voted to curb telephone party-line "hogs."

With only one dissenting vote, the Senate passed a bill slapping $50 to $500 fines on persons who refuse to yield party-line phones in cases of police, fire or medical emergencies.

The bill now goes to the House where a warm welcome awaits it.

Sen. Delbert Latta (R-Hancock), the author, told the Senate his proposal was based on a long history of inconsiderate and "long-winded" party-line users who kept talking even though their neighbors' houses were burning down.

Latta cited instances last year in Hancock, Ross and Licking counties where property damage or personal injury resulted when party-line subscribers refused to relinquish phone lines.

The bill provides stiff penalties also for persons who make fake claims of emergencies in order to obtain use of telephone lines.

The only vote against the bill was by Sen. Joseph Avellone (D-Cuyahoga), who was dissatisfied with Latta's explanation the measure does not condone wire-tapping or other wise do violence to a citizen's civil rights.

More Families Worshipping Together Now

CINCINNATI (AP)—More and more families are worshipping together on Sundays instead of attending separate Sabbath services.

Dr. Randolph C. Miller of Yale Divinity School today called this increase the "most successful single development" in the church's program to provide a ministry to the needs of the family as a unit.

The unified service is "not an adult service at which children are tolerated, but rather one in which parents and children discover that they can share their common growth, common resources and common loyalties," he said.

The professor of Christian education spoke at the annual assembly of the Division of Christian Education of the National Council of Churches. More than 1,600 representatives of 39 cooperating Protestant communions are attending sessions.

Dr. Miller said unified services usually last about 35 minutes and then are followed by classes according to age groups.

A trend in Sunday school education, he said, is the use of husband and wife teams as teachers.

"Both theologically and psychologically, this is a sound development," he said. "It may also help to overcome the distaste that many boys have for a feminine-flavored religion."

'56 Newspaper Fairness Test Being Urged

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Norman E. Isaacs, managing editor of the Louisville (Ky.) Times, today proposed a nationwide study of the performance of newspapers in the 1956 presidential campaign.

He suggested a committee be organized to make the study, and urged newspapers to demonstrate to the nation "that we who use editorial columns and power of printing presses to criticize others are willing to be weighed on our total performance in the 'goldfish bowl' which we advocate for all others."

Isaacs said some newspapers conducted themselves in "vulgar and boorish displays of one-sidedness" in the 1952 campaign.

He declared the majority of newspapers acted with fairness, but "some were guilty of campaigning in news space and some were guilty of news suppressions."

His speech was at the sixth annual William Allen White Lecture at the University of Kansas. Isaacs, a newspaperman since 1926, was president of the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. in 1953 and currently heads the APME Freedom of Information Committee.

Judge Changes Mind Second Time In Case

CLEVELAND (AP) — A common pleas judge, rectifying what he called his own error, sentenced three men to prison yesterday for grand larceny.

It was the second time the judge reversed himself in the case.

The three defendants, each given a one to seven year term, were August J. Scalia, 35, Frank Evola, 34, and Alexander Demkowicz.

Judge Parker Fulton, who passed sentence, also banished Defense Attorney Anthony C. Carlin from his courtroom in all future cases.

The judge then invited the lawyer to begin proceedings to remove him (Fulton) from the bench. Carlin refused the suggestion but said he would appeal the judge's latest ruling on grounds his clients were being illegally imprisoned.

The defendants, after pleading guilty to larceny in the theft of some New York Central Railroad freight, were given one to seven year sentences by Fulton last Jan. 7.

A week later Fulton vacated sentences, allowing them to change their pleas to innocent.

Judge Fulton explained yesterday he had no legal authority to permit the change of pleas, and therefore was ordering the original sentence into execution.

Carlin told reporters the original sentence violated an understanding he made with the judge and Assistant County Prosecutor Harvey R. Monck that the defendants would be given short jail terms if they pleaded guilty.

Arctic Air Mass Ending Brief 'Spring'

CHICAGO (AP) — Arctic air and northerly winds headed into the mid-continent today, ending a brief spell of "spring" weather.

The big mass of cold air from Canada sent temperatures tumbling sharply over the Great Plains from the Canadian border all the way to Oklahoma. There were strong northerly winds and some snow.

The cold air moved slowly in turning east but falling temperatures gradually extended southeastward across the upper Great Lakes region.

It was 20 degrees below zero early today in Dickinson, N. D., compared to yesterday morning's 12 above. Frigid air and strong winds were forecast for most of the north central region.

The belt of light snow extended from the Great Lakes region across the Central Plains to the Rockies. No other wet spots were reported.

Mild winter weather continued over most of the East and South.

Zhukov Invite Not Expected

Time Not Ripe For Ike To Host Red General

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower may invite Russia's Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov to visit him someday, but the experts are not betting on it.

There are too many problems, hostilities and suspicions between Moscow and Washington to make such an invitation possible now.

One of the President's associates said he does not see "a chance in a million" for such an invitation. State Department officials label the idea "premature."

Yet diplomats said that in some special future circumstances the friendship which developed between Eisenhower and Zhukov when they were Allied military leaders in Berlin at the end of World War II might prove useful to both countries.

Zhukov moved into the spotlight yesterday when he was appointed defense minister of the Soviet Union. A few years ago under the late Joseph Stalin he had apparently been banished from Moscow.

* * *

EISENHOWER yesterday paid warm tribute to Zhukov as a military leader and confirmed that each of them had told the other he was sure his country would not attack the other's homeland.

The President himself indicated the improbability of a visit under present conditions. He commented that "this would be a remarkable thing at the present state of affairs." He added that he "certainly wouldn't hesitate" to talk over with his advisers the problem of an invitation "if we found it desirable."

Goodyear Union Parley Continues

CINCINNATI (AP)—Negotiators for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. and the CIO United Rubber Workers Union worked today to complete a new master contract before the present one expires at midnight tonight.

A new agreement, or failure to reach one, would affect 25,000 Goodyear workers in 10 plants.

Company and union negotiators declined to discuss progress of the talks, following the traditional pattern in the rubbery industry not to give out statements while negotiations are in progress.

Radcliff Stresses Red Cross Needs

Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff warned Thursday that many services vital to the local public will be at stake when this year's Red Cross drive for Pickaway County gets under way the end of February.

Radcliff is serving as chairman of the district campaign, which will start here on Feb. 28 and continue through March 7. Among the services dependent on the annual drive for funds, the sheriff pointed out, is the blood program.

Other Red Cross activities which draw support from the drive include services to district veterans and their families. Essential need for the blood program has long been recognized throughout the nation.

The program sagged dangerously in Pickaway County in recent years until a reorganized leadership, under the Rev. Fred Ketner, again placed it on a firm operating basis. Now, Radcliff reminded the public, funds—in addition to the periodic call for blood donors—are needed to maintain the service.

* * *

LOCAL leaders of the Red Cross have been working on preliminary details of the 1955 campaign for many weeks. Nearly all of the more than 30 township and area chairmen have been selected.

"Our basic organization is shaping up better this year than last," Radcliff said. "Now, the important thing is to remind the public of the very important services that depend upon the annual solicitations."

During the one-week campaign, more than 500 volunteer workers will cover 15 townships to round up contributions. Such work will also cover Ashville, New Holland, Williamsport and Circleville.

The Red Cross goal for the district this year is $10,910.

Sixty-six percent of that goal will be held here for use of the local Red Cross Chapter. This portion, about $6,000, is used in the administration of the services — blood program, veterans aid, home service, loans and grants, disaster and safety services.

Charles H. Radcliff

Radcliff, urging prompt and strong public support for the 1955 drive, said:

* * *

"IT IS this money from contributions, together with thousands of hours of volunteer services, that enable our local chapter to answer the call of those in need.

"It may be a call for pints of blood, emergency help for the family or a serviceman, or any of a hundred other services the Red Cross is called upon to perform."

Radcliff, as chairman of the drive, has scheduled a coordinating meeting for Feb. 18. The meeting will be for all the township and Circleville area chairmen, and will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Charles Mowery Jr., 227 N. Scioto St.

At that time, the various chairmen will receive their instructions and supplies for the volunteers working in the townships and city area.

Jury Not Able Reach Verdict In Sayre Trial

A jury hearing the trial of a man accused of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquors was dismissed from the case late Wednesday when it failed to reach a verdict. The jury deliberated more than two hours.

Future plans for Holly Sayre, the accused man, are indefinite, according to attorney Richard Penn, one of his two defense lawyers.

Sayre's defense challenged validity of a blood-alcohol test he took at Berger Hospital

A reading of .15 or better on the test is considered by police here as "being under the influence".

* * *

COMMON PLEAS Judge William Radcliff, in whose court the trial is being held, said this was the first time in approximately 400 drunk driving cases that he could remember the test being introduced as evidence.

Earlier this week, another trial on a drunken driving accusation was heard and Walter Metzger was found guilty. Both of these, and several others scheduled for the near future, were indictments returned last month by the grand jury. The accused were bound over after pleading innocent in city court.

Burglar Tools, Blasting Material Found In Car Stopped By Patrol

What started out as a routine inspection of two suspicious men turned out to be a bonanza for State Patrolman Bob Greene Wednesday night.

While checking the two men, Greene discovered a set of burgler tools plus nitroglycerine and dynamite caps. One of the pair immediately took off and escaped.

The one man taken into custody turned out to be an ex-convict who was shot by a Circleville policeman at Eshelman's Mill in 1939. The man, Felix F. Jackim, 49, of Youngstown, has a record dating back to 1922.

The incident Wednesday night has an unusual twist.

* * *

JACKIM was involved in an accident near Logan Elm, south of here on Route 23. His car was forced off the road by an automobile transport.

Greene theorized that Jackim may have had the tools and blasting material in his car at the time. Before authorities came to investigate the accident, Greene continued, Jackim apparently hid the incriminating items in a culvert.

While patroling Route 23 Wednesday night, Greene noticed a car driving suspiciously up and down the highway. Later, he saw the car parked near the Logan Elm Restaurant, which was closed at that time of night.

Suddenly, he noticed a flicker of light along the berm. But thinking this might be a reflection from the moonlight, he continued on patrol.

Soon afterward, he noticed the car again. However, there were two occupants. Before, he had noticed only one.

* * *

THE PATROLMAN trailed the car into Circleville and halted it in the Southend. He ordered the two men out of the car and conducted a search. It was when he found the tools that the second man fled.

(The escaped man is described by Greene as follows: age, 51; 6', 210 pounds; brown hair, grey eyes; wearing a brown suit and brown hat, both badly worn, and a soiled grey tweed overcoat.)

Greene said he notified city police and sheriff's department here. A posse was quickly organized and did not disband until 5 a. m. Thursday. Deputies from Ross County plus patrol units from Chillicothe, Lancaster and Columbus joined in, but the hunt was called off at 5 a. m. without results.

Greene found the nitroglycerine and dynamite caps wrapped in a plastic bag under the front seat.

The Patrolman said he would charge Jackim with possession of burgler tools. Jackim's past history includes the following:

* * *

FIVE YEARS for the incident in Circleville (he was shot by Charles Mumaw, a city policeman, as he and another man were attempting to leave the mill);

10 years in the Pennsylvania State Prison for a 1922 burglary and larceny conviction;

10 months in a Jamesville, N. Y. jail in 1931 for assault; and

In 1932, he was sentenced to four consecutive 10-year terms in Moundsville, W. Va. for breaking and entering. He was paroled in 1938.

This is the second capture for Greene recently. He picked up two Columbus robbery suspects last weekend, one a juvenile.

* * *

THE OTHER MAN is Gerald H. Woodward, 27, an exconvict. He allegedly admitted participation in nine holdups in Columbus in the past two months.

Both he and the juvenile are being held by Columbus authorities.

Radcliff Stresses Red Cross Needs

Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff warned Thursday that many services vital to the local public will be at stake when this year's Red Cross drive for Pickaway County gets under way the end of February.

Radcliff is serving as chairman of the district campaign, which will start here on Feb. 28 and continue through March 7. Among the services dependent on the annual drive for funds, the sheriff pointed out, is the blood program.

Other Red Cross activities which draw support from the drive include services to district veterans and their families. Essential need for the blood program has long been recognized throughout the nation.

The program sagged dangerously in Pickaway County in recent years until a reorganized leadership, under the Rev. Fred Ketner, again placed it on a firm operating basis. Now, Radcliff reminded the public, funds—in addition to the periodic call for blood donors—are needed to maintain the service.

* * *

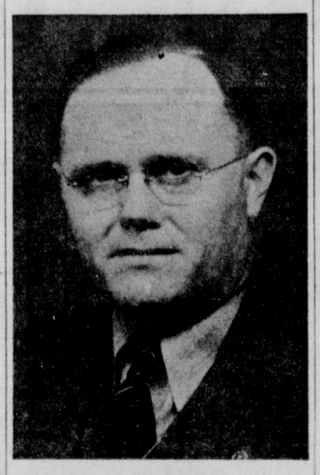

LOCAL leaders of the Red Cross have been working on preliminary details of the 1955 campaign for many weeks. Nearly all of the more than 30 township and area chairmen have been selected.

"Our basic organization is shaping up better this year than last," Radcliff said. "Now, the important thing is to remind the public of the very important services that depend upon the annual solicitations."

During the one-week campaign, more than 500 volunteer workers will cover 15 townships to round up contributions. Such work will also cover Ashville, New Holland, Williamsport and Circleville.

The Red Cross goal for the district this year is $10,910.

Sixty-six percent of that goal will be held here for use of the local Red Cross Chapter. This portion, about $6,600, is used in the administration of the services — blood program, veterans aid, home service, loans and grants, disaster and safety services.

Charles H. Radcliff

Radcliff, urging prompt and strong public support for the 1955 drive, said:

* * *

"IT IS this money from contributions, together with thousands of hours of volunteer services, that enable our local chapter to answer the call of those in need.

"It may be a call for pints of blood, emergency help for the family or a serviceman, or any of a hundred other services the Red Cross is called upon to perform."

Radcliff, as chairman of the drive, has scheduled a coordinating meeting for Feb. 18. The meeting will be for all the township and Circleville area chairmen, and will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Charles Mowery Jr., 227 N. Scioto St.

At that time, the various chairmen will receive their instructions and supplies for the volunteers working in the townships and city area.

GRAIN FUTURES

CHICAGO (AP)—Small gains and losses were posted in grains at the opening on the Board of Trade today.

Wheat stabilized after the sharp drop in old crop contracts yesterday. The market apparently had discounted news that wheat impounded under the loan was considerably less than a year ago.

Wheat started ⅜ lower to ⅜ higher, March $2.25-24¾; corn ¼ lower to ⅛ higher, March $1.52½-⅜; oats ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, March 76½-⅜; and soybeans unchanged to 1 cent lower, March $2.82-82½.

Jury Not Able Reach Verdict In Sayre Trial

A jury hearing the trial of a man accused of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquors was dismissed from the case late Wednesday when it failed to reach a verdict. The jury deliberated more than two hours.

Future plans for Holly Sayre, the accused man, are indefinite, according to attorney Richard Penn, one of his two defense lawyers.

Sayre's defense challenged validity of a blood-alcohol test he took at Berger Hospital

A reading of .15 or better on the test is considered by police here as "being under the influence".

* * *

COMMON PLEAS Judge William Radcliff, in whose court the trial is being held, said this was the first time in approximately 400 drunk driving cases that he could remember the test being introduced as evidence.

Earlier this week, another trial on a drunken driving accusation was heard and Walter Metzger was found guilty. Both of these, and several others scheduled for the near future, were indictments returned last month by the grand jury. The accused were bound over after pleading innocent in city court.

Burglar Tools, Blasting Material Found In Car Stopped By Patrol

What started out as a routine inspection of two suspicious men turned out to be a bonanza for State Patrolman Bob Greene Wednesday night.

While checking the two men, Greene discovered a set of burgler tools plus nitroglycerine and dynamite caps. One of the pair immediately took off and escaped.

The one man taken into custody turned out to be an ex-convict who was shot by a Circleville policeman at Eshelman's Mill in 1939. The man, Felix F. Jackim, 49, of Youngstown, has a record dating back to 1922.

The incident Wednesday night has an unusual twist.

* * *

JACKIM was involved in an accident near Logan Elm, south of here on Route 23. His car was forced off the road by an automobile transport.

Greene theorized that Jackim may have had the tools and blasting material in his car at the time. Before authorities came to investigate the accident, Greene continued, Jackim apparently hid the incriminating items in a culvert.

While patroling Route 23 Wednesday night, Greene noticed a car driving suspiciously up and down the highway. Later, he saw the car parked near the Logan Elm Restaurant, which was closed at that time of night.

Suddenly, he noticed a flicker of light along the berm. But thinking this might be a reflection from the moonlight, he continued on patrol.

Soon afterward, he noticed the car again. However, there were two occupants. Before, he had noticed only one.

* * *

THE PATROLMAN trailed the car into Circleville and halted it in the Southend. He ordered the two men out of the car and conducted a search. It was when he found the tools that the second man fled.

(The escaped man is described by Greene as follows: age, 51; 6', 210 pounds; brown hair, grey eyes; wearing a brown suit and brown hat, both badly worn, and a soiled grey tweed overcoat.)

Greene said he notified city police and sheriff's department here. A posse was quickly organized and did not disband until 5 a. m. Thursday. Deputies from Ross County plus patrol units from Chillicothe, Lancaster and Columbus joined in, but the hunt was called off at 5 a. m. without results.

Greene found the nitroglycerine and dynamite caps wrapped in a plastic bag under the front seat.

The Patrolman said he would charge Jackim with possession of burgler tools. Jackim's past history includes the following:

* * *

FIVE YEARS for the incident in Circleville (he was shot by Charles Mumaw, a city policeman, as he and another man were attempting to leave the mill);

10 years in the Pennsylvania State Prison for a 1922 burglary and larceny conviction;

10 months in a Jamesville, N. Y. jail in 1931 for assault; and

In 1932, he was sentenced to four consecutive 10-year terms in Moundsville, W. Va. for breaking and entering. He was paroled in 1938.

This is the second capture for Greene recently. He picked up two Columbus robbery suspects last weekend, one a juvenile.

* * *

THE OTHER MAN is Gerald H. Woodward, 27, an exconvict. He allegedly admitted participation in nine holdups in Columbus in the past two months.

Both he and the juvenile are being held by Columbus authorities.

TAIPEI (AP) — The U.S. Senate's ratification of the mutual defense pact with Nationalist China yesterday has put Chiang Kai-shek's capital in a better mood than at any time since he made his "painful decision" to withdraw his forces from the Tachen Islands.

The reaction here is one of relief and satisfaction, particularly with the 64-6 vote by the Senate.

Ohio State Fair Went 'In Red' About $27,078

The 1954 Ohio State Fair showed a deficit of $27,078.92, according to a report on a final audit of the fair released today by State Auditor James A. Rhodes.

The audit report shows receipts of $654,142.87, which includes $267.50 in accounts receivable, and expenditures of $681,221.89, including $907.84 in unpaid bills.

The deficit shown by the 1953 Sesquicentennial was $1,351.71.

Poor attendance, lowest since 1940, accounts for the entire deficit. Paid admissions were 240,794 in 1954 as compared with 287,533 in 1953; 296,439 in 1952; 304,045 in 1950, and 352,371 in 1946, the best year.

Revenue from admissions was $195,901.76, a drop of $36,390.23 from the previous year.

* * *

THE REPORT notes that paid admissions do not give a true picture of actual attendance since children under 12 were admitted free when accompanied by parents; complimentary tickets were issued on opening day to youth under 18, and on Armed Forces Day all participants were admitted free.

The audit shows that $21,000 of 1954 receipts was used to pay 1953 fair bills, while $29,000 was used to pay the labor payroll from Jan. 1 to June 30, 1954.

As was the case the preceding year, the fair had to ask the emergency board for an emergency appropriation of $75,000.

These deficiencies result from the following practices, according to the report: Using money derived from fair purposes for year-round maintenance; operating without an overall budget; no detailed budget for each activity; incomplete records of obligations; making obligations without the approval of the fair manager and filing a copy with the fair accounting office; using current revenue to pay past-due bills; insufficient regular appropriations for maintenance of grounds and buildings.

In addition to $654,142.87 in receipts from the fair in 1954, the legislature appropriated $92,848 for salaries and wages for the 1953-1954 fiscal year, and $93,364 for 1954-1955. It also appropriated for maintenance, $118,765 in 1953-1954, and $53,765 in 1954-1955. For the biennium $1,590,000 was appropriated for new buildings and lands.

Gambling Supplies Go Up In Flames

CANTON (AP)—Police Chief James Quilligan Jr., with firemen standing by, supervises a $100,000 fire yesterday of punchboards and gambling tickets.

The devices were confiscated in January, 1953, from the home of Louis H. Lehman, who was convicted of possessing gambling devices and sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $500. Judge Donald L. McCarroll ordered destruction of the two truck loads of equipment.

Rubber Railroad Debate Slated In Assembly

Controversial Plan To Be Aired Next Week For Third Time

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio railroads and Riverlake Belt Conveyor, Inc., square off next week in Ohio's 101st General Assembly for their third battle.

Chances are it will be a long, and often furiously-fought struggle. The climactic fight opens next Tuesday night before the Commerce and Transportation Committee of the House of Representatives.

The question is this: Shall Riverlake be granted the right to sieze land, after paying for it, for a right-of-way for a cargo-hauling belt conveyor extending across northeastern Ohio from Lake Erie to East Liverpool? This is called the "right of eminent domain"—the right of the "sovreign" to grab private property for the public good.

Riverlake placed the question before the Legislature in 1949 and 1951, but each time failed to come to a vote.

Riverlake contends it needs the right to condemn land for its right of way. Otherwise, unwillingness on the part of some landowners to sell either could force costly detours or block the path of the proposed conveyor altogether.

Backers of the revolutionary transportation system say they plan to haul iron ore and fluxing stone (limestone) from Lake Erie docks to steel mills in the Youngstown area, and coal from the East Liverpool area back to the Lake Erie docks for shipment to the upper Great Lakes.

"Such a conveyor system does not deserve the right of eminent domain," declare the state's freight - hauling railroads. "Eminent domain is a right that belongs only to the 'common carriers,' transportation systems that haul anything from coal and manure to eggs and thread.

"We lose money on many small shipments, but we are allowed to make it up on our heavy-volume traffic like coal, iron ore and stone. Now along comes this new scheme that wants to skim the cream off our business and leave us the unprofitable traffic.

"Riverlake would cost the jobs of 15,000 railroaders, many of whom are older men who could not be absorbed in other business. The coming of the belt conveyor would mean we would have to raise our rates on many household necessities just to break even on our whole operation."

The conveyor belt bill was introduced in the House a month ago by Reps. Clarence Wetzel (R-Columbiana), Bishop Kilpatrick (D-Trumbull) and Robert L. Johnson (R-Medina). An identical bill was offered in the Senate by Sen. Charles A. Mosher, Oberlin Republican.

Conveyor legislation is opposed by two railroad groups, the Ohio Railroad Assn. and The Special Transportation Committee, a group formed especially for this fight.

President of Riverlake is H. B. Stewart Jr. of Akron, who also is president of the Akron, Canton & Youngstown Railroad.

The railroad people have produced, and are showing in many parts of the state, a color movie called "Decision for Ohio," a documentary - type film which lauds railroads' role in the Ohio economy and decries the proposed conveyor system.

Stewart counters with the remark the film "out-Disneys Disney. (Walt Disney is the famed antimated-cartoon producer whose work includes the re-telling of many fairy tales.)

Master - minding the attack of the railroads is Earl (Pop) Shively, long-time attorney for Ohio railroads.

In the other corner, a fresh man for a hot battle, is former State Rep. Newton Chapman (R-Geauga), He succeeds former State Republican Chairman Ed D. Schorr in the spot, but Schorr remains as Riverlake's general counsel and will be active in behind-the-scenes operations.

The battle may take weeks. Barring a Riverlake defeat in the House, the fight will come up again in the Senate.

The measure started in the Senate in 1951 and died in its rules committee after having been recommended for passage by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Dixon-Yates Plan Gets Financial OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Securities and Exchange Commission has approved financing to start work on the controversial Dixon-Yates power project.

The commission, dividing 4-1, authorized the issuance of $5½ million of common stock.

The stock is to be issued by Mississippi Valley Generating Co., set up to build a private power plant to feed power into the Tennessee Valley Authority grid as replacement for power supplied by TVA for atomic installations. The contract for the project is with the Atomic Energy Commission.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Beef is back on the list of specials in the meat departments of the nation's food stores this week.

Beef prices came down a bit at wholesale this week, so you'll find lower prices in many stores on such items as chuck steak or roast, ribs of beef, boneless chuck pot roast and porterhouse and sirloin steaks. In some instances, the reductions will be around six cents a pound.

Frying chicken prices are lower in many areas this week, too. One large chain is cutting prices by two to four cents a pound in some of its markets.

Meat men rate pork as an especially good buy. Featured items will include loins of pork, pork chops, fresh spare ribs, fresh picnics and smoked hams.

The American Meat Institute reports that retail pork prices have reached their lowest levels in two years. In many localities, it says, prices are down between 15 and 32 per cent from a year ago.

"The declines have run across the board on various pork items," the institute says. "Pork loin roast dropped an average of nearly six cents a pound in just the last week and now is selling in Chicago stores at 18 cents a pound less than a year ago. Center cut pork chops, declining 6½ cents in the last week, are averaging 13 cents below a year ago, while sliced bacon is 23 cents a pound lower."

The institute adds that pork sausage meat has declined 25 per cent since last February, smoked picnics have come down 18 per cent and whole ham 16 per cent.

Lamb prices don't show much change from a week ago, but legs of lamb will be widely featured for weekend dinners.

Some stores are going to have turkeys at lower prices. There also will be occasional specials on shoulders of veal.

Egg prices are moving up again. A major chain is hiking prices in all its stores by from two to four cents a dozen.

Potatoes, onions and cabbage are considered the outstanding buys in vegetables this week. Good value also may be had in iceberg lettuce, bunched and topped carrots, endive, escarole, small to medium-size peppers and rhubarb.

The quality of green beans is said to be only fair, generally speaking. Among vegetables going up in price at the wholesale level this week were corn, cucumbers, eggplants and cauliflower.

Florida strawberries are arriving in good volume in eastern markets and produce men say the price is reasonable. Other worthwhile buys are oranges, grapefruit, tangerines and apples. The delicious type apple gets the favored rating.

Second Hearse Trip Is McCoy

EL MONTE, Calif. (AP) — Harry Apperson Jones was in a hearse en route to a mortuary last Sept. 1 when he revived and persuaded the driver to take him to a hospital.

A chronic sufferer from a heart condition, Jones had been pronounced dead by a doctor.

Last night Jones suffered another heart attack. And this time he was not revived. His body was taken to the same mortuary for which he started last September.

200 Experts To Eye Church Building Setup

Architects To Confer At Council Meeting Soon In Cincinnati

CINCINNATI—More than 200 of the nation's leading architects and church specialists in building will confer here for three days this month on new planning and building methods being used in new churches that are going up in virtually every community in the U. S.

Meeting here Feb. 23-25 will be the national joint conference on church architecture, sponsored annually by the Church Architectural Guild of America and the Bureau of Church Building of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. Host to the gathering is the Guild's Cincinnati chapter, headed by Charles Frederick Cellarius, president.

Stressing the magnitude of America's current church construction boom, Dr. Harry Atkinson, director of the Bureau of Church Building, reported that a recent survey by the National Council of Churches disclosed that six major Protestant denominations spent more than a third of their current income for church building last year. Total U. S. expenditures for new churches and for remodelling and replacing out-dated buildings, he said, rose to $588 million in 1954, and will undoubtedly go well over $600 million this year.

The conference will single out for recognition one American who has done most during the year to further good church architecture Special awards will also be given to architects who have designed the year's most outstanding new churches.

Architects from all over the U.S. submit models, blueprints, drawings, and photographs of churches built during the last year, currently under construction, or planned for a hypothetical congregation. Awards for outstanding designs are given by a conference jury of architects and church representatives. The entire exhibit will be available for showing at regional meetings later.

At the annual banquet concluding the conference, the Conover Award will be given to the individual chosen for a particularly distinguished contribution to church architecture. The award is given in memory of the late Dr. Elbert M. Conover, former director of the Bureau of Church Building. Presiding at the award ceremonies will be Dr. Arland A. Dirlam, Boston architect who is president of the Church Architectural Guild.

During the conference, a panel of architects and churchmen will devote one session to "Today's Churches for Tomorrow," a discussion of new architecture and building methods. Panel members will be T. Norman Mansell, Philadelphia architect who is chairman of the joint conference, and three New Yorkers: Maurice T. Salo, architect and secretary of the Church Architectural Guild; the Rev. Marvin P. Halverson, executive director of the Department of Worship and the Arts, National Council of Churches; and Dr. Clarence W. Hall, executive editor of The Christian Herald.

Other major topics slated for discussion by the delegates are the headaches of a church building committee, in terms of finance, community religious needs, and planning for the congregation's religious and recreational activities, and a special report on standards and planning for religious education classrooms and equipment.

Special features of the three-day gathering include tours to Cincinnati churches, and the premiere of a sound film in color, "Singing Towers," on church bells and carillons, with narration by radio announcer Milton Cross.

Push-Button Car Starter Works OK

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—A kitchen push-button gives Capt. Kenneth R. Kurtzman a hot car on cold mornings.

Kurtzman has rigged 40 feet of TV antenna wire from the kitchen of his home to the garage. The wire carries current which trips the ignition and starts the car motor while the captain eats his breakfast.

He calls his invention "MATO"—morning - assisted - take - off. It cost him about $3.

Western Town Frowns On Shaving

TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES, N.M. (AP)—Police are arresting clean-shaven men these days if they don't have a shaving permit. It's the law that, by way of making the city look more Western for its annual fiesta program, men must buy a $1 shaving permit or wear their whiskers long. Fiesta ends Feb. 17.

Ike Asks New Aid To Radio Free Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has called on Americans to "help intensify the will for freedom" in Soviet satellite countries by supporting private broadcasts beamed behind the Iron Curtain.

Eisenhower made the appeal in a White House talk transmitted over a "closed" television circuit to Crusade for Freedom meetings in 35 U. S. cities.

Speaking of the satellite nations, Eisenhower said:

"These countries are in the Soviet back yard; and only so long as their people are reminded that the outside world has not forgotten them — only that long do they remain as potential deterrents to Soviet aggression."

The talk was prepared before this week's dramatic shakeup in the Russian leadership and was delivered without change.

Eisenhower urged support for the Crusade for Freedom, which finances Radio Free Europe broadcasts. The crusade is sponsored by the American Heritage Foundation.

200 Experts To Eye Church Building Setup

Architects To Confer At Council Meeting Soon In Cincinnati

CINCINNATI—More than 200 of the nation's leading architects and church specialists in building will confer here for three days this month on new planning and building methods being used in new churches that are going up in virtually every community in the U. S.

Meeting here Feb. 23-25 will be the national joint conference on church architecture, sponsored annually by the Church Architectural Guild of America and the Bureau of Church Building of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. Host to the gathering is the Guild's Cincinnati chapter, headed by Charles Frederick Cellarius, president.

Stressing the magnitude of America's current church construction boom, Dr. Harry Atkinson, director of the Bureau of Church Building, reported that a recent survey by the National Council of Churches disclosed that six major Protestant denominations spent more than a third of their current income for church building last year. A WORRISOME STEP

CONGRESS, encouraged by general sentiment in the upper echelons of officialdom in Washington that pay for top government positions is too low, is rather timidly leaning toward an increase in the stipend, now $15,000 a year. A Senate committee proposes to raise it to $22,500. The figure most widely favored in the House is $25,000.

Timidity springs from congressional fear that the voters might react with hostility to such a move, despite the fact that the $25,000 figure, converted into terms of buying power, would be much lower than salaries paid by the government 50 years ago.

It is the misfortune of members of Congress that their pay can only be increased by congressional action. This is why salaries of members has lagged far behind general increase in incomes over the years. Voter reaction is expressed only in opposition to such increases, never in favor of them.

Members of Congress should display the courage needed to vote themselves the pay their way of life demands to make ends meet. Voter demand for services from Senators and Representatives is great, and these lawmakers should not be asked to engage in a myriad of extracurricular activities for their constituents without adequate recompense. Many Congressmen have been forced to dig into their private means to perform duties not connected with legislation that the voters expect of them.

EDUCATIONAL PROBE

AS SOON AS the Senate Banking Committee announced its decision to investigate the stock market Keith Funston, president of the New York exchange, hastened to say he welcomed the publicity.

Officials of the "big board" have been striving mightily to strip away the mystery which the average citizen regards as veiling stock market operations. They have utilized several devices, including special courses for women investors and an installment plan method of selling stocks.

That these efforts have met with a degree of success is apparent in increased trading activity in brokerage houses and a greater diffusion in stock ownership.

Funston, however, would be the last to credit salesmanship for the tremendous upsurge in the market which has driven stocks higher and higher. Numerous factors are at work. Apart from the general dynamic tone of the economy, the tendency of large investors, such as insurance companies and investment trusts, to invest in common shares as well as bonds is perhaps the most significant.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Most people know as little about flouridation as I do. Most of those who favor it and oppose it and are littered with propaganda on both sides would find it difficult to explain why anyone should get all hot and bothered about this business of pouring another poison into our water. For our health, our water has already been chlorinated and the real effect is to give it so horrible a taste that alcoholism is on the increase. Whenever I taste water that has been manhandled by a chlorinator, I understand why the late Heywood Broun preferred gin.

So now they are to put fluorides into our water to save our teeth. My suspicions are naturally aroused because so many dentists are for it. They must have grown eleemosynary of late to favor something that they claim will put them out of business. As I have no teeth of my own, perfect teeth are of small moment to me personally, but I too can be eleemosynary and favor something that benefits someone else, if it does.

The question that arises in my mind is, suppose 10 or 20 years from now, the professors change their minds about flouridation. Suppose they say that instead of saving teeth, it harms something else.

So I read an article in the "Scientific American," entitled "A Study of the Anti-Scientific Attitude,' and discovered that the authors, Bernard and Judith Mausner, agree with Senator Fulbright that there is a "swinish blight of anti-intellectualism," and that whoever says that if you want to use flourides for the teeth, get it in a bottle at a drugstore instead of in the water-works, is an aforesaid swinish anti-intellectual.

This broad generalization reminds me of the anti-Fascists who denounced everyone who despised Stalin as pro-Fascist, and the anti-Communist who believe that everyone who reads the "Daily Worker" is a Communist.

In a word, here is supposed to be learned writing on a technical subject which I pick up to inform myself and find in the first paragraph a polemic on the distrust of "intellectuals," which has nothing to do with the subject. I am sure that the Mausners, whoever they may be, regard themselves as intellectuals but I doubt whether they can write learnedly on the moral systems of Maimonides, Thomas Aquinas, Spinoza and Kant and, if they cannot, I shall everlastingly deny them the title of "intellectuals."

Also, unless they can write several thousand words on the romantic period in music and unless they can speak authoritatively on the influence of Wagner on Verdi's "Otello," I shall mark them down as having no right to wear the Sign of the Egg-head.

The trouble with a fellow who becomes fanatical about such a subject as fluoridation is that while he can explain why poison, if taken in small doses, might do no damage, or might even be beneficial, like opium, if one has a bellyache, he does not explain why it should not be sold in a drugstore so that the fellow who does not care for the stuff is not obligated to have it in his coffee. The answer, of course, is that it is a poison.

Doctor at the CROSSROADS

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

Copyright, 1954, by Elizabeth Seifert. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

SYNOPSIS

Dr. Fred Beier had come from St. Louis to the rural community of Jennings, Missouri, where he hoped to find peace in the quiet countryside. And he had found it and contentment, too, serving as the little town's only physician. He was happy in an old-fashioned house with Katie, his wife, an unpretentious young matron, who knew very well that many a woman cast a covetous eye upon her Fred. Women, for instance, like wealthy, glamorous Mrs. Linda Kyle, who had interested the doctor in her varied charity causes. Now, Linda's immediate concern is the Nienaber family, kindly German refugees who seemed lost and frightened in their new found land. So to humor Linda, Fred calls at the Nienaber home far out in the Valley, where he finds the wife and mother, Clara Nienaber, a victim of tuberculosis. Despite her bewildered and protesting husband's objections, the doctor manages to get the stricken woman to a sanitarium.

CHAPTER FIVE

LINDA settled happily into the seat; she made a very good listener; it was one of her many charms.

"I don't see my profession," Fred told her, "as a matter of caring for illnesses alone. I didn't come here to this Valley, you know, to take care of Dolores Beckwith's bad tonsils, and the like. I came here because the community as a whole needed me. People as far apart as Arthur Bay and Catherine Peake . . ."

"Theo Kyle and Frau Nienaber," murmured Linda.

"Yes!" he said crisply. "That is why I came! That is why I stay. I like a place where I can be bossy and save people like the Nienabers from themselves. What is more, I mean to do those things!"

Linda laughed happily. "I've always known that you had German blood, Fred, but—"

"I am German," he said firmly.

She looked at him. "Must you be grim about it?"

"I don't know. For years I was ashamed of it. It did no good. The fact persisted. I was still German. Teutonic."

"Sweet and gentle folk, good cooking, sentimental songs, fairy tales. . . ."

"I hope I have those things. But in me there are the other Teutonic qualities, as well, Linda. For instance, I have, and very strongly, the Herrenvolk complex. We Germanic folk, you know, believe firmly that we, and we alone, were set on earth to rule, to guide, to direct less fortunate mortals. That conviction is within me; when I have an opinion, it is right. All others are wrong. You know?"

She laughed, doubtfully. "But mostly you are right, Fred."

He smiled quizzically. "I'd be just as emphatic if I were wrong. And then it would seem that I was tyrannical. I know this trait in me, Linda."

"Yes, I suppose you do. I suppose that's what Mirandy meant when she said, 'Fred has the making of a domineering beast.' "

He leaned his head back and laughed aloud. It was a warm, hearty sound in the clear, crisp air. Swiftly her gloved fingers touched his hand upon the wheel. "Oh, Fred, we do like you here in the Valley."

"I'm glad," he said warmly. "But Mirandy is quite right, for once. Though don't tell her. She makes so much of praise. You know?"

Linda nodded. "I know."

"As for that beast-business — time, a good mother and a stern one—and various other things have turned my tyrannical impulses to harmless—no, to beneficial things! So it is not all bad, eh?"

"You're safe in asking me for an opinion," she told him saucily. "But, Fred—aren't you saying that another sort of man, given your chance here in Jennings, could have done harm to our valley? We rely on you so completely, and for so many things."

"You considered me warily enough when I first came here."

"Did we?"

"Oh, yes. You needed me badly. I had not got both feet down from the train step before I was doctoring. But still, you all watched me. And if I had not been an honest man, you would have quickly detected the fact. I might still be here, but I'd certainly not enjoy the trust and respect which people have given me. So! I am here, and happy to be here. And the Valley—not unhappy, I think?"

She smiled at him. "Not too unhappy," she teased.

The car had come to a stop before her handsome home. "I could immediately produce people of good judgment, Linda, who would condemn my autocratic plans for the Nienabers. Those wise ones would say that our d.p.'s should not be allowed to breed, that one should make no plan to protect their puny child. That my very purpose in protecting it is suspect."

She pressed her hand against the door latch. "But you still plan to protect it, don't you? Thank you, Fred, for going out with me. I've ruined your morning."

He smiled and shook his head. "Only made me a little late for breakfast."

She looked swiftly at her watch. "And just a little early for lunch," she said contritely. "Katie will scalp me."

"She knows me. It is my scalp she will have. "Good by, Linda." His eyes followed her to the door.

Entering his old-fashioned house, he sighed with pleasure in this familiar sense of homecoming, of security.

Katie longed for a modern house, one with wide windows and lots of closet space, and clean-lined furniture. What she would do with his mother's chair tidies he could only guess. But one day Katie should have her smart, new house! That he promised himself!

"Fred, is that you down there?" Katie's voice floated down the stairs.

"No, it is the ice man," he said, walking toward the front of the hall to meet Katie, to lift her into his arms for a warm kiss.

"I want coffee. And food. Perhaps we could make it breakfast and lunch, no?"

His arm tightened about her shoulders. She laughed and shook her head. She was a slender girl, his Katie, nine years younger than Fred, and he loved her very dearly.

He sat at the kitchen table and watched her move about. Her light brown hair was smooth, her cotton dress fitted her well and Katie had a knack of tying an apron about her slender waist, with the bow always crisp and perkily erect.

He drank the orange juice which she set before him. "That is very good!" he sighed.

"Are you tired so early, Fred?" she asked gently.

He reached for the newspaper. "Has Miss Huggins . . .?"

"Yes, she has!" said Katie, pouring coffee into his big cup. "I told her I was only your wife, and so would have no idea where you might be."

"And was she also disrespectful?"

Katie giggled. "And how!"

"I must do something about the women in my life."

"You'd better. Have you been so busy, Fred?"

"Just busy enough. Slice it thick, Katie. You know I like my toast soft in the middle. Soggy, in fact."

He ate with evident satisfaction, then leaned back in his chair and patted his belt buckle. "If I didn't have to go to work, I would be a happy man," he said richly. "Good food, a home I love, a wife—" His eyes canted toward her.

She waited.

"Whom I love also," he concluded softly, and Katie's cheeks flared pink with pleasure. "Oh, Fred!" she breathed.

"There is no doubt," he said briskly, "that I am a great lover." He reached for the newspaper, his eyes scanning the headlines. He scarcely ever had time to do more.

She moved deftly about the big kitchen, clearing the meal away.

"Do you like it here in the Valley, Fred?" she asked him.

He frowned as if he needed to repeat her question to himself. "Why have you been meaning to ask me that, Katie?"

"Well, you've been here for three years now. That's time enough to know if you like it."

"I see. No particular reason just now to ask me such a thing?"

"No, Fred. But I do wonder—"

He scanned her face for some hidden motive. But it was his Katie's face, open and sweetly calm.

"I am a doctor, my Katie," he said slowly. "I am a man—the kind of man—who wants to be his own man. As a doctor, I want to live in a place where I can see my life-work spread itself out before me. The opportunities, the performance and the results. I want to plan that work, and carry out my plans, not pushed by competition, my motives not clouded by a striving for recognition of my ability. That is what I want in life. What I have always wanted of it." He stood up. "Yes," he said firmly, "I do like it here in the Valley and here, God willing, I hope to stay."

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

The Rev. George Troutman stated that 71 percent of the county residents are unchurched, during an address given at a meeting of Trinity Lutheran Ladies Society.

Circleville residents viewed a personel appearance of Ted Lewis on the Milton Berle television program.

Mrs. William Radcliff was hostess to 35 members of the Sorosis club.

TEN YEARS AGO

Circleville motorists were warned by automobile dealers and garagemen to take care of their cars to keep them running until new ones are available.

Warmer weather and a new supply of coal have eased the fuel shortage in Circleville.

Mrs. Ray Davis and Mrs. Donald Watt presented papers at a Presbyterian Women's group meeting held in the home of Mrs. Joseph Adkins.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A total of $1,167 was collected in a Red Cross Drive in Pickaway County.

The Rev. William Alexander, pastor of the South Bloomfield Methodist church, told Circleville Kiwanians of his travels from his home in England around Africa, to Australia and New Zealand and on to America.

The market price of eggs has jumped to 35 cents per dozen.

Try, Stop Me

It's hard to keep track of family trees out Hollywood way, with divorces and remarriages so prevalent among the movie elite. They say two lads at an executive's estate got into a big fight, with one star's son taunting another. "My father can lick the daylight out of your father."

"You're balmy!" answered the other calmly. "Your father is my father!"

"Mike," a county judge told a familiar old figure at the bar, "I'm letting you go this time, but mind you, I don't expect to see you here again."

Mike looked mightly surprised. "How come, Judge?" he inquired anxiously. "Are-ya aimin' to retire?"

Sandy MacGregor was justifiably proud of his young son Jock. He saved up his toys for his second childhood.

An article in Soviet magazine blandly declares that American women have been enslaved by their husbands. Obviously, the Russian pen is flightier than the sword.

The Soviet writer says love is only possible under Communism. That guy doesn't know the difference between a dull Red and a blushing pink.

The Moscow mag piece claims that under capitalism a woman's not considered a whole human being. Maybe he's heard about the better half.

A Michigan state legislator who wants parking meters banned in that state lebels them as being "un-American." How can a machine be un-American when it will operate only by means of U. S.-MINTED COINS?

The city of Miami, Fla., is seeking new industries, we read. It already has one of the finest, an industry that costs nothing to operate—sunshine!

Total circulation of U. S. newspapers has reached an all time high of 55 million. We always said Americans knew a good thing when they saw it!

That new plane that takes off straight up is hailed as a great success. When it comes to the ingenuity of our aeronautics engineers even the sky isn't the limit!

No animal in the world of equal size is believed to be more powerful than the American black bear.

The trumpeter swan of North America weighs about 35 pounds and is the heaviest flying bird.

Only one American woman driver in nine has an auto accident. The ratio is one in four for men.

Is This World A Fat Man's Paradise?

Not if you can believe insurance statistics which claim that overweight causes more deaths than cancer. Reliable authorities hold that obesity is responsible for more disability and sickness than any other physical condition. If you are troubled with excess weight read this letter from L. E. Armstrong, 2717 Ralph Ave., Cleveland 9, Ohio who writes: "I had been troubled with a bad heart, and my doctor advised that I lose weight. With the help of Rennel Concentrate I was able to decrease my weight from 224 lbs. to 169 lbs. I would like to tell everyone who is overweight the good that Rennel has done for me."

Thousands of others have overcome the social and physical discomfort of being overweight with this effective home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. No diets to complicate your meal planning. No expensive vitamins to fortify your system from weakness while going without food for you can eat normally. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender, more youthful curves — if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Insist on and be sure to get Rennel.

WASHINGTON — A nonpublicized scientific study sponsored by the United States Congress may combine with development of atomic power for commercial use to transform the planet Earth into a garden of human peace and happiness, provided the Communists do not blow it to bits before final success has been achieved. It is believed that the experiments for the good of mankind will become fact within five years.

The less known venture involves the attempt to convert sea, brackish and highly mineralized waters into a fresh substance suitable for use by municipalities and industries, and, perhaps most important of all, for irrigating millions of parched and uncultivable acres throughout the world, here and abroad. Lands now fit only for vultures and lizards may be made to bloom with food, fiber and flowers.

Simultaneously — Five years hence—cheap atomic energy may power industries to provide standards of living so high that even plushy Russian commissars might envy. The market of the world's poor and hungry may then prove less susceptible to communistic capitalization.

* * *

WATER ACT — Private and public efforts to convert substandard water into fresh have been made for many years, albeit sporadically and separately. It can be done. We make sea water potable for warships and certain overseas bases, where money is no consideration. But the major need is to reduce the conversion cost to a commercially practical figure, as is true of the application of atomic energy to peacetime use.

In 1952, Rep. Clair Engle of California persuaded Congress to pass the Saline Water Act, which provided for a five-year experiment by Interior Department experts. It carried funds for work by private industries, universities and research centers. It also authorized cooperation with many foreign groups and governments tapping for new sources of "liquid gold."

* * *

RESULTS — The results have been surprisingly favorable. When the program got underway in late 1952, it was hoped that the cost for freshening 1,000 gallons, or an acre per foot, could be reduced to $500 within five years. A thousand gallons will cover an acre with water one foot deep, and is known technically as a "per acre foot" unit.

Under certain processes already proved practicable, the cost has been cut to about $200 within two and a half years for irrigational purposes, and to $125 for municipal and industrial. These charges are still too high for everyday application, but the price of storing, hauling and distributing water increases every day. Long-time sources are not being replenished, while demand increases dangerously. The gap in cost narrows every year.

* * *

PRESENT COST—Certain cities pay about $125 for 1,000 gallons now, when overall charges on the investment are included. Certain farmlands that produce high-revenue citrus fruits can afford from $30 to $50 an acre foot. More normal crops, such as ordinary fruits, vegetables, nuts, cotton, etc., cannot pay more than $10

Conversion of brackish or alkali water for use by cities and factories requires considerably less expenditure. Making it fit for human or industrial consumption may be only a few years distant.

Success, which is now assured, will prove a blessing to such areas as California, to the Gulf States from Texas to Florida, and to cities on the Great Plains and elsewhere, where water sometimes requires almost medical treatment before it can be drunk or used in manufacture.

* * *

EXPENSE—The major item of cost is energy, whether it is produced by steam, waterpower or solar rays. The sun's heat would be the cheapest source, but harnessing it is still far from practicable on the required scale. However, this problem has never been attacked so intensively as now.

Fortunately, the countries most in need of fresh water are bathed in extreme sunlight most of the year—South and Central America, Africa, India, the Middle East. It is the peoples of these lands who may be turned from Communism by these two scientific undertakings, as Washington realizes.

* * *

SECOND STUDY — Although authorization for the first five-year experiment does not expire until 1957, Representative Engle recently asked the Congress to provide for a second five-year study, thus insuring continuity. Approval is certain, in view of the Californian's assurance that success is "in sight." He gave that promise on the basis of a third progress report by David S. Jenkins, Interior Department coordinator for the saline water project.

A WORRISOME STEP

CONGRESS, encouraged by general sentiment in the upper echelons of officialdom in Washington that pay for top government positions is too low, is rather timidly leaning toward an increase in the stipend, now $15,000 a year. A Senate committee proposes to raise it to $22,500. The figure most widely favored in the House is $25,000.

Timidity springs from congressional fear that the voters might react with hostility to such a move, despite the fact that the $25,000 figure, converted into terms of buying power, would be much lower than salaries paid by the government 50 years ago.

It is the misfortune of members of Congress that their pay can only be increased by congressional action. This is why salaries of members has lagged far behind general increase in incomes over the years. Voter reaction is expressed only in opposition to such increases, never in favor of them.

Members of Congress should display the courage needed to vote themselves the pay their way of life demands to make ends meet. Voter demand for services from Senators and Representatives is great, and these lawmakers should not be asked to engage in a myriad of extracurricular activities for their constituents without adequate recompense. Many Congressmen have been forced to dig into their private means to perform duties not connected with legislation that the voters expect of them.

EDUCATIONAL PROBE

AS SOON AS the Senate Banking Committee announced its decision to investigate the stock market Keith Funston, president of the New York exchange, hastened to say he welcomed the publicity.

Officials of the "big board" have been striving mightily to strip away the mystery which the average citizen regards as veiling stock market operations. They have utilized several devices, including special courses for women investors and an installment plan method of selling stocks.

That these efforts have met with a degree of success is apparent in increased trading activity in brokerage houses and a greater diffusion in stock ownership.

Funston, however, would be the last to credit salesmanship for the tremendous upsurge in the market which has driven stocks higher and higher. Numerous factors are at work. Apart from the general dynamic tone of the economy, the tendency of large investors, such as insurance companies and investment trusts, to invest in common shares as well as bonds is perhaps the most significant.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Most people know as little about flouridation as I do. Most of those who favor it and oppose it and are littered with propaganda on both sides would find it difficult to explain why anyone should get all hot and bothered about this business of pouring another poison into our water. For our health, our water has already been chlorinated and the real effect is to give it so horrible a taste that alcoholism is on the increase. Whenever I taste water that has been manhandled by a chlorinator, I understand why the late Heywood Broun preferred gin.

So now they are to put fluorides into our water to save our teeth. My suspicions are naturally aroused because so many dentists are for it. They must have grown eleemosynary of late to favor something that they claim will put them out of business. As I have no teeth of my own, perfect teeth are of small moment to me personally, but I too can be eleemosynary and favor something that benefits someone else, if it does.

The question that arises in my mind is, suppose 10 or 20 years from now, the professors change their minds about flouridation. Suppose they say that instead of saving teeth, it harms something else.

So I read an article in the "Scientific American," entitled "A Study of the Anti-Scientific Attitude,' and discovered that the authors, Bernard and Judith Mausner, agree with Senator Fulbright that there is a "swinish blight of anti-intellectualism," and that whoever says that if you want to use flourides for the teeth, get it in a bottle at a drugstore instead of in the water-works, is an aforesaid swinish anti-intellectual.

This broad generalization reminds me of the anti-Fascists who denounced everyone who despised Stalin as pro-Fascist, and the anti-Communist who believe that everyone who reads the "Daily Worker" is a Communist.

In a word, here is supposed to be learned writing on a technical subject which I pick up to inform myself and find in the first paragraph a polemic on the distrust of "intellectuals," which has nothing to do with the subject. I am sure that the Mausners, whoever they may be, regard themselves as intellectuals but I doubt whether they can write learnedly on the moral systems of Maimonides, Thomas Aquinas, Spinoza and Kant and, if they cannot, I shall everlastingly deny them the title of "intellectuals."

Also, unless they can write several thousand words on the romantic period in music and unless they can speak authoritatively on the influence of Wagner on Verdi's "Otello," I shall mark them down as having no right to wear the Sign of the Egg-head.

The trouble with a fellow who becomes fanatical about such a subject as fluoridation is that while he can explain why poison, if taken in small doses, might do no damage, or might even be beneficial, like opium, if one has a bellyache, he does not explain why it should not be sold in a drugstore so that the fellow who does not care for the stuff is not obligated to have it in his coffee. The answer, of course, is that it is a poison.

Doctor at the CROSSROADS

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

SYNOPSIS

Dr. Fred Beier had come from St. Louis to the rural community of Jennings, Missouri, where he hoped to find peace in the quiet countryside. And he had found it and contentment, too, serving as the little town's only physician. He was happy in an old-fashioned house with Katie, his wife, an unpretentious young matron, who knew very well that many a woman cast a covetous eye upon her Fred. Women, for instance, like wealthy, glamorous Mrs. Linda Kyle, who had interested the doctor in her varied charity causes. Now, Linda's immediate concern is the Nienaber family, kindly German refugees who seemed lost and frightened in their new found land. So to humor Linda, Fred calls at the Nienaber home far out in the Valley, where he finds the wife and mother, Clara Nienaber, a victim of tuberculosis. Despite her bewildered and protesting husband's objections, the doctor manages to get the stricken woman to a sanitarium.

CHAPTER FIVE

LINDA settled happily into the seat; she made a very good listener; it was one of her many charms.

"I don't see my profession," Fred told her, "as a matter of caring for illnesses alone. I didn't come here to this Valley, you know, to take care of Dolores Beckwith's bad tonsils, and the like. I came here because the community as a whole needed me. People as far apart as Arthur Bay and Catherine Peake . . ."

"Theo Kyle and Frau Nienaber," murmured Linda.

"Yes!" he said crisply. "That is why I came! That is why I stay. I like a place where I can be bossy and save people like the Nienabers from themselves. What is more, I mean to do those things!"

Linda laughed happily. "I've always known that you had German blood, Fred, but—"

"I am German," he said firmly.

She looked at him. "Must you be grim about it?"

"I don't know. For years I was ashamed of it. It did no good. The fact persisted. I was still German. Teutonic."

"Sweet and gentle folk, good cooking, sentimental songs, fairy tales. . . ."

"I hope I have those things. But in me there are the other Teutonic qualities, as well, Linda. For instance, I have, and very strongly, the Herrenvolk complex. We Germanic folk, you know, believe firmly that we, and we alone, were set on earth to rule, to guide, to direct less fortunate mortals. That conviction is within me; when I have an opinion, it is right. All others are wrong. You know?"

She laughed, doubtfully. "But mostly you are right, Fred."

He smiled quizzically. "I'd be just as emphatic if I were wrong. And then it would seem that I was tyrannical. I know this trait in me, Linda."

"Yes, I suppose you do. I suppose that's what Mirandy meant when she said, 'Fred has the making of a domineering beast.' "

He leaned his head back and laughed aloud. It was a warm, hearty sound in the clear, crisp air. Swiftly her gloved fingers touched his hand upon the wheel. "Oh, Fred, we do like you here in the Valley."

"I'm glad," he said warmly. "But Mirandy is quite right, for once. Though don't tell her. She makes so much of praise. You know?"

Linda nodded. "I know."

"As for that beast-business — time, a good mother and a stern one—and various other things have turned my tyrannical impulses to harmless—no, to beneficial things! So it is not all bad, eh?"

"You're safe in asking me for an opinion," she told him saucily. "But, Fred—aren't you saying that another sort of man, given your chance here in Jennings, could have done harm to our valley? We rely on you so completely, and for so many things."

"You considered me warily enough when I first came here."

"Did we?"

"Oh, yes. You needed me badly. I had not got both feet down from the train step before I was doctoring. But still, you all watched me. And if I had not been an honest man, you would have quickly detected the fact. I might still be here, but I'd certainly not enjoy the trust and respect which people have given me. So! I am here, and happy to be here. And the Valley—not unhappy, I think?"

She smiled at him. "Not too unhappy," she teased.

The car had come to a stop before her handsome home. "I could immediately produce people of good judgment, Linda, who would condemn my autocratic plans for the Nienabers. Those wise ones would say that our d.p.'s should not be allowed to breed, that one should make no plan to protect their puny child. That my very purpose in protecting it is suspect."

She pressed her hand against the door latch. "But you still plan to protect it, don't you? Thank you, Fred, for going out with me. I've ruined your morning."

He smiled and shook his head. "Only made me a little late for breakfast."

She looked swiftly at her watch. "And just a little early for lunch," she said contritely. "Katie will scalp me."

"She knows me. It is my scalp she will have. "Good by, Linda." His eyes followed her to the door.

Entering his old-fashioned house, he sighed with pleasure in this familiar sense of homecoming, of security.

Katie longed for a modern house, one with wide windows and lots of closet space, and clean-lined furniture. What she would do with his mother's chair tidies he could only guess. But one day Katie should have her smart, new house! That he promised himself!

"Fred, is that you down there?" Katie's voice floated down the stairs.

"No, it is the ice man," he said, walking toward the front of the hall to meet Katie, to lift her into his arms for a warm kiss.

"I want coffee. And food. Perhaps we could make it breakfast and lunch, no?"

His arm tightened about her shoulders. She laughed and shook her head. She was a slender girl, his Katie, nine years younger than Fred, and he loved her very dearly.

He sat at the kitchen table and watched her move about. Her light brown hair was smooth, her cotton dress fitted her well and Katie had a knack of tying an apron about her slender waist, with the bow always crisp and perkily erect.

He drank the orange juice which she set before him. "That is very good!" he sighed.

"Are you tired so early, Fred?" she asked gently.

He reached for the newspaper. "Has Miss Huggins . . .?"

"Yes, she has!" said Katie, pouring coffee into his big cup. "I told her I was only your wife, and so would have no idea where you might be."

"And was she also disrespectful?"

Katie giggled. "And how!"

"I must do something about the women in my life."

"You'd better. Have you been so busy, Fred?"

"Just busy enough. Slice it thick, Katie. You know I like my toast soft in the middle. Soggy, in fact."

He ate with evident satisfaction, then leaned back in his chair and patted his belt buckle. "If I didn't have to go to work, I would be a happy man," he said richly. "Good food, a home I love, a wife—" His eyes canted toward her.

Under certain processes already proved practicable, the cost has been cut to about $200 within two and a half years for irrigational purposes, and to $125 for municipal and industrial. These charges are still too high for everyday application, but the price of storing, hauling and distributing water increases every day. Long-time sources are not being replenished, while demand increases dangerously. The gap in cost narrows every year.

* * *

PRESENT COST—Certain cities pay about $125 for 1,000 gallons now, when overall charges on the investment are included. Certain farmlands that produce high-revenue citrus fruits can afford from $30 to $50 an acre foot. More normal crops, such as ordinary fruits, vegetables, nuts, cotton, etc., cannot pay more than $10

Conversion of brackish or alkali water for use by cities and factories requires considerably less expenditure. Making it fit for human or industrial consumption may be only a few years distant.

Success, which is now assured, will prove a blessing to such areas as California, to the Gulf States from Texas to Florida, and to cities on the Great Plains and elsewhere, where water sometimes requires almost medical treatment before it can be drunk or used in manufacture.

* * *

EXPENSE—The major item of cost is energy, whether it is produced by steam, waterpower or solar rays. The sun's heat would be the cheapest source, but harnessing it is still far from practicable on the required scale. However, this problem has never been attacked so intensively as now.

Fortunately, the countries most in need of fresh water are bathed in extreme sunlight most of the year—South and Central America, Africa, India, the Middle East. It is the peoples of these lands who may be turned from Communism by these two scientific undertakings, as Washington realizes.

* * *

SECOND STUDY — Although authorization for the first five-year experiment does not expire until 1957, Representative Engle recently asked the Congress to provide for a second five-year study, thus insuring continuity. Approval is certain, in view of the Californian's assurance that success is "in sight." He gave that promise on the basis of a third progress report by David S. Jenkins, Interior Department coordinator for the saline water project.

Calvary Church Society Has Inter-Racial Guest Service

Guest Address Is Heard On India

The Woman's Society of World Service of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church held an inter-racial guest service in the social rooms of the church.

Four members of the Second Baptist church and Mrs. Donald Smallwood of Mill St., a native of Japan, were honored guests at the meeting.

Program for the event was conducted by Mrs. Dale Delong and Mrs. Edward Bost. Opening poem, "God's Plan", was followed by Scripture, read by Mrs. Delong. The group sang the hymn, "Open My Eyes" and Mrs. Delong offered prayer.

One of the guests recited a poem, "Only One," and Mrs. Smallwood displayed a Japanese doll dressed in native costume.

Guest speaker for the session was Montford Kirkwood Jr., who told of the cities in India which he had visited while serving in the armed forces. He highlighted his address with a display of souvenirs he had obtained in his travels in India.

Following the program, a layette shower was held to honor Mrs. Willis Flowers, a member of the society. Games and contests were enjoyed during a social hour and Mrs. Delong and Miss Helen Kocher were declared winners.

Refreshments were served at the close of the session. Mrs. Edward McCann, Mrs. Talmer Wise and Mrs. Manley Carothers served as hostesses for the event.

A refreshment committee for a March meeting, which is to be held in the church social rooms, will include Miss Vera Grubb and Mrs. Everett Sanders.

Mary H. Floyd Addresses Meet Of Women's Club

The members of the Pickaway County Democratic Women's club held a covered dish dinner preceding a regular meeting in the American Hotel.

Mrs. Mary Fullen presided during a business session. She introduced Mary Hazel Floyd of New Boston, State Central Committeewoman, who served as guest speaker for the session.

John Robinson, Democratic candidate for mayor of Circleville, and Ray Cook, candidate for councilman-at-large, also addressed the group.

The next session is to be held March 7 in the headquarters in the American Hotel.

Nazarene Church Class Conducts Carry-In Dinner

The members of the Good Samaritan Class of the Church of the Nazarene were guests in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Dale Fruehling for a covered dish dinner.

A total of 18 members and six visitors were present for the dinner, which preceded a regular monthly meeting of the class.

Mrs. Montford Lockbaum conducted a short business session, when the group listed as a new project the purchase of a Christian flag and standard for the church.

Mrs. Fruehling led the group in singing at the opening of the meeting. Mrs. Lockbaum presented Scripture reading and Mrs. Baldwin Anderson offered prayer.

The Rev. Mr. Fruehling led the group in games and contest during a social hour.

Mr and Mrs. Nolan Dunkle of 143 Walnut St. are to be host and hostess to a March 8 meeting of the group.

Safety Film Is Shown At Meet Of Duvall Club

The Duvall Go-Getters 4-H club held the second meeting of the year in the home of Judy Kay and Charles Moss.

During a business session, dates for coming meetings were set and the payments of dues was discussed.

The program of the meeting was devoted to safety. A sound movie was shown to the club by State Highway Patrolman Carl Wolfinger, entitled, "Word of Honor". Safety demonstrations were given by Judy Kay and Barbara Moss and Noell Rader.

The next session is to be held in the home of Eddie Dountz of Ashville Route 2.

Household Hints

Body build is important in determining ideal weight, nutritionists say. It is necessary to take bone structure, as well as height, into consideration.

Top squares of leftover ham loaf with slices of canned peaches; blend a little of the peach syrup with prepared yellow mustard and spoon over the garnished squares. Bake in a hot oven, basting a few times, until hot through.

Cut an avocado in half either lengthwise or crosswise, twist and then remove seed before peeling. If you peel the avocado whole before removing the seed, you'll find the outside of the fruit is likely to look messy.

Valentine's Day Dance Is Booked By Elks Members

The house and entertainment committees of the Elks Lodge are making final plans for a Valentine dance to be held Saturday evening for the members and their ladies.

The rooms of the lodge are being decorated for the occasion in a color scheme of red and white. Festoons of streamers fall from the ceiling and small red hearts are being used to decorate the windows and other vantage points throughout the room.

The Rhythmaires are to provide music for a 50-50 dance, and round and square dancing will be enjoyed from 9 p. m. to 12 midnight.

Nagging Backache Sleepless Nights

Often Due to Kidney Slow-down

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, headaches, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

St. Valentine's Traditions Read At St. Philip's

St. Philip's church Woman's Auxiliary held their February meeting in the parish house Wednesday evening.

A special feature of the meeting was a paper regarding the origins of traditions of St. Valentine's Day read by Mrs. Helen Gunning. A Bible name and place acrostic contest was conducted by Mrs. Enid Denham, program chairman.

During a business session, Mrs. J. E. Groom, president, called for reports from the various standing committees. Mrs. Howard B. Moore and Mrs. Robert Hutzelman were appointed to serve with Mrs. N. T. Weldon on a personnel committee.

Mrs. George Fickardt accepted appointment as United Thank Offering custodian during the coming year. Establishment of a penny fund for the purchase of a new mimeograph machine for the parish was agreed upon. Mrs. George Fickardt will serve as chairman. It was agreed also that future meetings are to begin at 8 p. m. instead of 7:30 p. m., as heretofore.

Tea was served at the conclusion of the meeting by a refreshment committee for the month: Mrs. Howard B. Moore, Miss Margaret Mattinson, and Mrs. Lewis Cooper, chairman.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Delong of S. Pickaway St. and Mrs. Charles W. Winner of Sunshine Drive were Wednesday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Lambert and family of Lancaster.

Washington Grange will meet at 7:30 p. m. Friday in Washington Township school.

The Wayne Township Home Demonstration club will meet from 10 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. Monday in the Westfall school. A project on lampshade construction will be highlight of the session.

Rev. Metzler Is Host To Meeting

The M and M class of the Gospel Center met in the home of The Rev. and Mrs. L. S. Metzler of Circleville Route 3.

Program for the evening included scripture readings, singing and Bible contests.

Miss Carol Ann Spangler and Miss Marlene Metzler entertained the group with two piano solos. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening by the hostess.

Many Burns Can Be Aggravated By Grease And Oily Substances

(Second of Series)

Butter scooped from its dish may be all right for a lighly burned finger, but never get the idea that all forms of grease and oil are good first-aid for all types of burns.

As a matter of fact, careless treatment given a burn in its early stages can make it much more difficult for the doctor to treat. The point is brought out in the list of instructions issued by the U. S. Government's Civil Defense Department for emergency aid to injured persons.

The CD manual for this purpose warns:

There are more 'don'ts" than "do's" to remember in the handling of bad burns.

Do not use grease, oil, water, or anything else on a bad burn. This does not mean that ointments and salves never are suitable for treatment of burns. This is for a physician to decide. If you guess wrong and use the wrong kind of treatment, you make it almost impossible for the physician to change to the right kind for that particular burn. Use of an ointment may force the physician to remove whatever you have put on the burn he can proceed with his own treatment.

* * *

Lay the burned victim down and keep him quiet. Do not remove any more clothing than necessary. If clothing sticks to the burn, cut around it—do not pull it off. Do not try to clean the burn and do not open any blisters.

Here is the right thing to do: cover the burned area with a clean dry compress or pad of cloth, if civil defense burn pads are not available. You can use strips torn from a sheet, a shirt, a towel, a pillowcase, or anything else that may be at hand. Have them clean if possible. Use several layers of cloth, arranged smoothly, to make a pad. Cover every part of the burn.

Hold the pad snugly in place with a bandage. Do not apply a tight bandage, but make it snug enough so air will have a hard time getting under it. If you have plenty of material, make the bandage good and thick. Once the bandage is on, do not disturb it. Let it alone until a physician can treat the burned person.

Give the victim plenty of water to drink with salt and baking soda added. Mix a half teaspoon of baking soda and one teaspoonful of salt into each quart of water. This will help prevent shock. Encourage the victim to drink plenty of this solution. A burned person might take six or seven quarts of this fluid, and sometimes more in 12 to 14 hours.

DO NOT give this or any other solution to unconscious or semi-conscious people, nor to people with extremely severe burns in which half or more of the body surface is burned. In such cases vomiting the solution may cause strangling.

* * *

BROKEN BONES

You can often tell a broken arm or leg because it is bent or turned in a way that does not look right. Just as often, however, there is no outward sign of a broken bone until you move the patient.

If the victim cannot move the limb, he may have a broken bone. Movement of the part usually is painful. There may be tenderness and swelling at the point of break, and there also may be a rough edge of bone that you feel with your fingers. A grating sensation when the limb is moved is a sign of a broken bone. Sometimes the ends of broken bones stick out through the skin.

Do not try to set the broken bone. Do not try to push back pieces of bone that may be sticking out of the skin. Do not handle the break roughly or carelessly—in fact, do not handle it at all if you can help it. Wait for medical help or an experienced first-aider.

Always remember that moving a patient with a broken bone may cause the jagged bone end or bone fragments to poke around and do serious damage to flesh, blood vessels, and nerves.

A broken bone, in itself, is not usually a great threat to the patient's life. It can become so if he is not cared for properly. One of the bad results of broken bones comes from shock caused by the injury. Shock can be serious and it can be brought on or increased by moving the patient improperly. Shock is discussed in the next article.

If it is absolutely necessary to move a victim with a broken bone, there is an emergency action you can take. The action consists of putting on a splint.

* * *

A splint is any object which can be applied to the victim so that the broken bone ends cannot move. It usually is a board or piece of wood of the right length and width, but in an emergency it can be anything from a thick bundle of folded newspapers to a broom handle. Splints should be long enough to reach beyond the joints above and below the break. Pad the splint heavily to make the patient more comfortable. Do this by wrapping the splint in cloth.

The way to apply a splint is to lay it alongside the broken arm or leg, then tie it snugly in place above and below the break. Tie it in enough places so the broken bone cannot move. DO NOT TIE TOO TIGHTLY, otherwise you may cut off the blood supply or injure the nerves. Put padding under the ties all the way around the limb.

Broken bones in the hand, arm, shoulder or collar bone require support in addition to splinting. You can provide support with an emergency sling when no triangular bandage is at hand.

Place the victim's forearm across his chest and pin his sleeve to his coat. In this way the lower sleeve will take the weight of the injured arm. Or pin up the lower edge of his coat or shirt to get the same result. A scarf, towel, or diaper makes a good emergency sling. So does a wide strip torn from a sheet. Anything to make a triangular bandage would be all right.

A person with a broken neck or a broken back will need expert attention. Do not try to move such a person unless you must do so to keep the patient from drowning or burning to death. Attempts may result in injury to the spinal cord, and paralysis or death.

If you do have to move him, slide him as gently as possible onto a litter, a heavy board, or a door which you have taken off its hinges. Take him only far enough away so he is no longer in danger, then let him alone until trained help arrives.

Good first-aid training is necessary before you can take care of broken bones properly. Take a Red Cross first-aid course if you get the opportunity. You owe it to yourself and your family.

Lausche Boomed For President

WARREN (AP)—Boys parading in the aisles with banners reading "Lausche for President" interrupted the start of a talk by Ohio's Gov. Frank J. Lausche at a public meeting here.

Lausche responded by again denying any presidential aspirations.

The five-term Democratic governor was introduced at a meeting attended by about 1,000 persons where an award as the "All-American City" was presented to the city of Warren.

As soon as the curly haired Lausche stood up, about half a dozen boys started parading with banners reading "Lausche for President" and "Curly-Top for President."

Congress OKs Bill Extending GI Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress sent to President Eisenhower yesterday legislation continuing full GI education benefits for all service people who went into uniform before Feb. 1.

Senate passage by voice vote and without debate completed congressional action. The House approved it 366-0 last month.

Nearly 1½ million servicemen and women would benefit to the tune of about $390 million in post-discharge schooling benefits over the next 10 years.

The bill was introduced after President Eisenhower issued a proclamation last month setting Jan. 31 as the cutoff date for various wartime veterans' benefits.

This order meant that a person already in service before Jan. 31 would not be able to accrue his GI educational credits beyond that date. These benefits are figured on the basis of 1½ days of schooling for each day served, up to a maximum of 36 months of free education.

The President has let it be known he would go along with legislation to keep schooling benefits alive for those in uniform before Feb. 1.

Killer Fighting Return To Ohio

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Homer Jack Dean has appealed to the West Virginia Supreme Court from a Marshall County order returning him to Ohio to serve a life sentence for murder.

Dean, 44, was released last December from the state penitentiary at Moundsville after his life sentence was commuted by Gov. William C. Marland.

Dean was sentenced as an habitual criminal. While serving that term at Moundsville he was returned to Ohio, tried and convicted on a murder charge in the 1947 slaying of Elmo Rice, Columbus real estate dealer.

Many Burns Can Be Aggravated By Grease And Oily Substances

(Second of Series)

Butter scooped from its dish may be all right for a lighly burned finger, but never get the idea that all forms of grease and oil are good first-aid for all types of burns.

As a matter of fact, careless treatment given a burn in its early stages can make it much more difficult for the doctor to treat. The point is brought out in the list of instructions issued by the U. S. Government's Civil Defense Department for emergency aid to injured persons.

The CD manual for this purpose warns:

There are more 'don'ts'' than "do's" to remember in the handling of bad burns.

Do not use grease, oil, water, or anything else on a bad burn. This does not mean that ointments and salves never are suitable for treatment of burns. This is for a physician to decide. If you guess wrong and use the wrong kind of treatment, you make it almost impossible for the physician to change to the right kind for that particular burn. Use of an ointment may force the physician to remove whatever you have put on the burn he can proceed with his own treatment.

* * *

Lay the burned victim down and keep him quiet. Do not remove any more clothing than necessary. If clothing sticks to the burn, cut around it—do not pull it off. Do not try to clean the burn and do not open any blisters.

Here is the right thing to do: cover the burned area with a clean dry compress or pad of cloth, if civil defense burn pads are not available. You can use strips torn from a sheet, a shirt, a towel, a pillowcase, or anything else that may be at hand. Have them clean if possible. Use several layers of cloth, arranged smoothly, to make a pad. Cover every part of the burn.

Hold the pad snugly in place with a bandage. Do not apply a tight bandage, but make it snug enough so air will have a hard time getting under it. If you have plenty of material, make the bandage good and thick. Once the bandage is on, do not disturb it. Let it alone until a physician can treat the burned person.

Give the victim plenty of water to drink with salt and baking soda added. Mix a half teaspoon of baking soda and one teaspoonful of salt into each quart of water. This will help prevent shock. Encourage the victim to drink plenty of this solution. A burned person might take six or seven quarts of this fluid, and sometimes more in 12 to 14 hours.

DO NOT give this or any other solution to unconscious or semi-conscious people, nor to people with extremely severe burns in which half or more of the body surface is burned. In such cases vomiting the solution may cause strangling.

* * *

BROKEN BONES

You can often tell a broken arm or leg because it is bent or turned in a way that does not look right. Just as often, however, there is no outward sign of a broken bone until you move the patient.

If the victim cannot move the limb, he may have a broken bone. Movement of the part usually is painful. There may be tenderness and swelling at the point of break, and there also may be a rough edge of bone that you feel with your fingers. A grating sensation when the limb is moved is a sign of a broken bone. Sometimes the ends of broken bones stick out through the skin.

Do not try to set the broken bone. Do not try to push back pieces of bone that may be sticking out of the skin. Do not handle the break roughly or carelessly—in fact, do not handle it at all if you can help it. Wait for medical help or an experienced first-aider.

Always remember that moving a patient with a broken bone may cause the jagged bone end or bone fragments to poke around and do serious damage to flesh, blood vessels, and nerves.

A broken bone, in itself, is not usually a great threat to the patient's life. It can become so if he is not cared for properly. One of the bad results of broken bones comes from shock caused by the injury. Shock can be serious and it can be brought on or increased by moving the patient improperly. Shock is discussed in the next article.

If it is absolutely necessary to move a victim with a broken bone, there is an emergency action you can take. The action consists of putting on a splint.

* * *

A splint is any object which can be applied to the victim so that the broken bone ends cannot move. It usually is a board or piece of wood of the right length and width, but in an emergency it can be anything from a thick bundle of folded newspapers to a broom handle. Splints should be long enough to reach beyond the joints above and below the break. Pad the splint heavily to make the patient more comfortable. Do this by wrapping the splint in cloth.

The way to apply a splint is to lay it alongside the broken arm or leg, then tie it snugly in place above and below the break. Tie it in enough places so the broken bone cannot move. DO NOT TIE TOO TIGHTLY, otherwise you may cut off the blood supply or injure the nerves. Put padding under the ties all the way around the limb.

Broken bones in the hand, arm, shoulder or collar bone require support in addition to splinting. You can provide support with an emergency sling when no triangular bandage is at hand.

Place the victim's forearm across his chest and pin his sleeve to his coat. In this way the lower sleeve will take the weight of the injured arm. Or pin up the lower edge of his coat or shirt to get the same result. A scarf, towel, or diaper makes a good emergency sling. So does a wide strip torn from a sheet. Anything to make a triangular bandage would be all right.

A person with a broken neck or a broken back will need expert attention. Do not try to move such a person unless you must do so to keep the patient from drowning or burning to death. Attempts may result in injury to the spinal cord, and paralysis or death.

If you do have to move him, slide him as gently as possible onto a litter, a heavy board, or a door which you have taken off its hinges. Take him only far enough away so he is no longer in danger, then let him alone until trained help arrives.

Good first-aid training is necessary before you can take care of broken bones properly. Take a Red Cross first-aid course if you get the opportunity. You owe it to yourself and your family.

World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators, watching Asia like men with no time to lose, in the past two weeks have approved two extremely important treaties and a far-reaching resolution. All involve defense in the far Pacific.

Treaty debates are often oratorical festivals which sometimes last weeks. Not this time. The Senate took less than a day each to approve the treaties and just a few days for the resolution.

The resolution and one treaty apply to defense of Formosa. The other treaty covers defense of Southeast Asia. The Senate took these two actions on Formosa:

1. Jan. 28. It gave President Eisenhower a blank check by approving beforehand anything he thought necessary to do in defense of Formosa, the nearby Pescadores Islands and "related" areas.

This means he could order the bombing of mainland China if he thought it should be done to prevent a Red Chinese buildup for an attack on Formosa. The resolution gives the President extraordinarily wide discretion.

2. Feb. 9. The Senate okayed a mutual defense agreement between the United States and Chiang Kai-shek's government, but only on Formosa and the Pescadores. It does not apply to other Chiang-held islands.

The President, of course, will operate under the wider powers of the resolution as long as he sees fit. Although the resolution and the treaty seem like duplicates of each other, they are not quite.

The President's power under the resolution ends when he notifies Congress the emergency in the Formosa area is over. That emergency may not be considered over for years.

The treaty, on the other hand, is to last "indefinitely," unless canceled by either side on one year's notice.

The treaty, rushed through at this time, has more psychological than real value, since it is added notice to the Red Chinese of the American government's determination to defend Formosa.

The other treaty — approving U.S. membership in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization — was approved Feb. 1. The members of Seato, besides this country, are Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Pakistan and Thailand.

Under this treaty the members agree to act together for the defense of Southeast Asia against Red attack. Just how much the treaty really means depends on what the members want to make it mean. It sounds big. Time will show how good or flimsy it is.

It does not, for instance, mean the United States must go to war to defend Southeast Asia. The members will decide what to do "in accordance with their constitutional processes." In this country's case Congress would have to approve American action.

The members also agree to try to counter Communist subversion in the area, besides giving mutual help in economic and other ways in the area.

Top TV Stars See Ratings Chopped By Competition

NEW YORK (AP)—Increased competition is chopping down the popularity ratings of television's top stars.

The competition is coming in two ways: In many areas that formerly had only one station, viewers had to watch whatever it carried or turn off the set. Now they have more stations — and more choice. The other is the tendency by each network to throw its strong programs against the opposition's best.

Gone are the days when Milton Berle or I Love Lucy could expect to be tuned in by 65 or 70 per cent of the TV sets in range.

The ratings on Lucy, for example, with strong Monday night opposition from Medic, has been running 4½ to 14 percentage points behind last season, when the Dennis Day show was the chief rival.

Berle ran eighth in the latest Nielsen rating with an estimated 44 per cent of TV sets tuned in. He was fourth with 52.7 per cent a year ago.

Another example is Dragnet with 44.3 against 56.3 a year ago.

A big factor could be, of course, that some shows aren't as good as a year ago or that viewers are tiring of them. Nonetheless, the ratings necessary to win places in the top 10 have been substantially below last season.

Among newcomers to the charmed circle are George Gobel, Disneyland and an occasional color extravaganza.

Making films for TV is becoming big business. Sponsor Magazine estimates TV films made for distribution directly to stations will gross 60 million dollars this year, and old movies shown originally for theaters will gross 20 million more. The totals do not include TV films made for network showing, such as I Love Lucy and Medic.

More Prosecution Witnesses Due

WASHINGTON C. H. (AP) — The trial of Jack Southward, 24, on a first degree murder charge entered its tenth day today with five prosecution witnesses slated to take the stand.

Miss Mary Sauer, a stenographer, yesterday testified she heard Southward's wife, Ruth, 23, charge the accused man with deliberate intent to kill shortly before her death. Miss Sauer took the statement from the dying woman.

Fayette County Prosecutor John S. Bath said state witnesses may conclude their testimony today. Southward's wife died last Sept. 10 in a Columbus hospital of gunshot wounds received two days earlier.

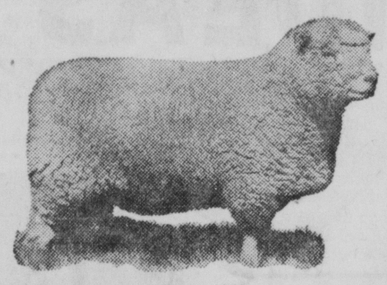

Guided Missile Explanation Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Minshall (R-Ohio) has asked Army authorities to explain further the reasons for "Nike" guided missile installations near strategic U. S. cities, if security will allow.

Minshall said he believed opposition to the Nike system comes from "lack of understanding among the general public."

World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators, watching Asia like men with no time to lose, in the past two weeks have approved two extremely important treaties and a far-reaching resolution. All involve defense in the far Pacific.

Treaty debates are often oratorical festivals which sometimes last weeks. Not this time. The Senate took less than a day each to approve the treaties and just a few days for the resolution.

The resolution and one treaty apply to defense of Formosa. The other treaty covers defense of Southeast Asia. The Senate took these two actions on Formosa:

1. Jan. 28. It gave President Eisenhower a blank check by approving beforehand anything he thought necessary to do in defense of Formosa, the nearby Pescadores Islands and "related" areas.

This means he could order the bombing of mainland China if he thought it should be done to prevent a Red Chinese buildup for an attack on Formosa. The resolution gives the President extraordinarily wide discretion.

2. Feb. 9. The Senate okayed a mutual defense agreement between the United States and Chiang Kai-shek's government, but only on Formosa and the Pescadores. It does not apply to other Chiang-held islands.

The President, of course, will operate under the wider powers of the resolution as long as he sees fit. Although the resolution and the treaty seem like duplicates of each other, they are not quite.

The President's power under the resolution ends when he notifies Congress the emergency in the Formosa area is over. That emergency may not be considered over for years.

The treaty, on the other hand, is to last "indefinitely," unless canceled by either side on one year's notice.

The treaty, rushed through at this time, has more psychological than real value, since it is added notice to the Red Chinese of the American government's determination to defend Formosa.

The other treaty — approving U.S. membership in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization — was approved Feb. 1. The members of Seato, besides this country, are Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Pakistan and Thailand.

Under this treaty the members agree to act together for the defense of Southeast Asia against Red attack. Just how much the treaty really means depends on what the members want to make it mean. It sounds big. Time will show how good or flimsy it is.

It does not, for instance, mean the United States must go to war to defend Southeast Asia. The members will decide what to do "in accordance with their constitutional processes." In this country's case Congress would have to approve American action.

The members also agree to try to counter Communist subversion in the area, besides giving mutual help in economic and other ways in the area.

Top TV Stars See Ratings Chopped By Competition

NEW YORK (AP)—Increased competition is chopping down the popularity ratings of television's top stars.

The competition is coming in two ways: In many areas that formerly had only one station, viewers had to watch whatever it carried or turn off the set. Now they have more stations — and more choice. The other is the tendency by each network to throw its strong programs against the opposition's best.

Gone are the days when Milton Berle or I Love Lucy could expect to be tuned in by 65 or 70 per cent of the TV sets in range.

The ratings on Lucy, for example, with strong Monday night opposition from Medic, has been running 4½ to 14 percentage points behind last season, when the Dennis Day show was the chief rival.

Berle ran eighth in the latest Nielsen rating with an estimated 44 per cent of TV sets tuned in. He was fourth with 52.7 per cent a year ago.

Another example is Dragnet with 44.3 against 56.3 a year ago.

A big factor could be, of course, that some shows aren't as good as a year ago or that viewers are tiring of them. Nonetheless, the ratings necessary to win places in the top 10 have been substantially below last season.

Among newcomers to the charmed circle are George Gobel, Disneyland and an occasional color extravaganza.

Making films for TV is becoming big business. Sponsor Magazine estimates TV films made for distribution directly to stations will gross 60 million dollars this year, and old movies shown originally for theaters will gross 20 million more. The totals do not include TV films made for network showing, such as I Love Lucy and Medic.

More Prosecution Witnesses Due

WASHINGTON C. H. (AP) — The trial of Jack Southward, 24, on a first degree murder charge entered its tenth day today with five prosecution witnesses slated to take the stand.

Miss Mary Sauer, a stenographer, yesterday testified she heard Southward's wife, Ruth, 23, charge the accused man with deliberate intent to kill shortly before her death. Miss Sauer took the statement from the dying woman.

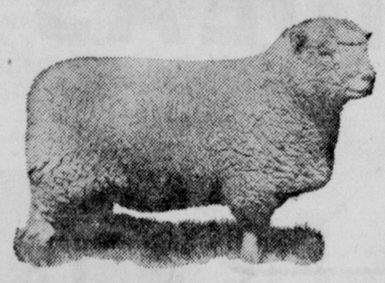

Fayette County Prosecutor John S. Bath said state witnesses may conclude their testimony today. Southward's wife died last Sept. 10 in a Columbus hospital of gunshot wounds received two days earlier.

Guided Missile Explanation Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Minshall (R-Ohio) has asked Army authorities to explain further the reasons for "Nike" guided missile installations near strategic U. S. cities, if security will allow.

Minshall said he believed opposition to the Nike system comes from "lack of understanding among the general public."

St. Valentine Considered As Good Salesman

Annual Heart Throb Day Brings Boom To Some Businesses

NEW YORK (AP)—Turning hearts into dollars is the big aim of merchants this week.

And each year more manufacturers get the notion that St. Valentine would make a good salesman.

Book publishers are taking newspaper ad space to plug titles with the words "heart" or "love" in it. The Elgin National Watch Co. of Elgin, Ill., this year has launched a big promotion to persuade jewelers that the day dedicated to love ought to rank next to Christmas and graduation day as a chance to sell watches.

The drive to revive the nightshirt is filling the papers and magazines with pictures of that one-time favorite, all bedecked with designs and colors that would have frightened grandpa, and plugging Valentine's Day as the right time to take the plunge.

The men's tie foundation is pleading with every lass to buy her man a cravat—and so soon after Christmas, too!—and has some ties with love motifs emblazoned on them.

The jewelry industry's council has a long list of love emblems in a wide price range for men, women and even children. It thinks love and affection should be given a big whirl this year.

St. Valentine's chief trouble as a salesman has always been that he's in a field so recently worked by St. Nicholas.

Many Christmas bills, alas, still aren't entirely paid. And the memory of the cost of generosity still lingers on in the mind, if not the heart, of the juggler of the family budget.

Merchants are aware of this. But each year they try a little harder to overcome it.

Time was when Valentine's Day was chiefly an occasion for the exchange of cards—and the valentine still runs second only to the Christmas card, as the card makers and the postman can tell you.

Candy makers have always enjoyed a sales field day on this occasion. The florists and the telegraph offices always pay a good deal of homage to St. Valentine, and he is always good to them in return.

But now almost everyone with a product that could be considered a gift has shunted aside the Christmas wrappings and put his item in packages either heart shaped or liberally besprinkled with the emblem of the good saint.

Heart-shaped handkerchiefs are a staple of the trade. Hoisery, some with appliqued hearts, is a promotion item in most department stores.

This year some merchants are driving hard to sell red petticoats and report that lingerie is becoming an increasingly popular valentine gift.

Men's shirts are getting a play along the same line this year. And at least one merchant is featuring hearts in his ad for clearance of suits and overcoats.

Manufacturers are working the valentine idea hard, some with products with love emblems on them, but most of them through a liberal use of hearts and lace on their packaging.

If it works, the day will furnish a good sales fillup to the dull period between Christmas and Easter.

School Squabble Case Dismissed

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court has dismissed an action by the Lawrence County Board o Education in a dispute over a county school superintendent.

W. Donald Russell asked the Lawrence County appellate court to prevent his dismissal as superintendent. The board went to the supreme court in an effort to prevent the lower court from proceeding with the case.

The high court clerk's office said the case was dismissed for lack of prosecution. The office said it lacked information on Russell's status.

In a free society, no one ought to be forced to do what he chooses not to do, just as a Christian Scientist may eschew a physician, or a Jew, pork. These choices are made on religious grounds and therefore are protected by the Constitution, but fluoridation is advocated by dentists and social workers and therefore the Constitution may not be invoked to protect them.

I know much about teeth, not having any anymore. The question has always been in my mind whether I lost my teth or the dentist lost them. I remember once being advised to use some stuff as a mouth rinse and then reading a learned paper by another dentist on how this particular stuff softens the gums. How does one get his teeth back after his dentist gives him a free sample of a gum-softener?

in a free society there ought to be in a free societ there ought to be room for some freedom of choice. Suppose a citizen does not want perfect teeth if he has to get it by drinking poison in small doses. He ought to have a choice. And the rest might buy their fluorides in a drugstore.

Southeast Ohio Gas Hike Asked

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Manufacturers Light and Heat Co. has asked for a permanent rate increase of $1,400,000 in a hearing before the state utilities commission.

The increase would affect some 41,600 residential and commercial customers in southeastern Ohio. The company also requested a $180,000 annual increase on industrial sales in the same area.

Company officials said the permanent rate request would raise gas cost $6 a year over the temporary rates for customers who use the normal amount of gas for cooking, water heating and other non-heating purposes.

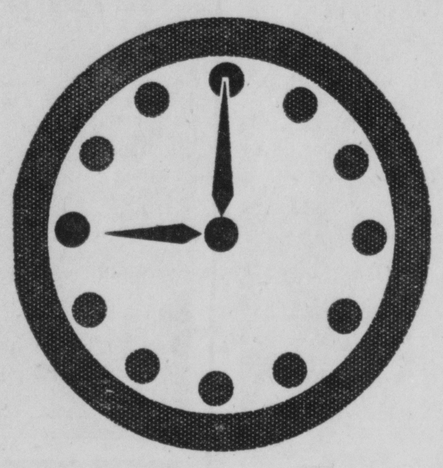

Rates would go up about $24 annually for homes using gas for both heating and non-heating purposes.

Hal Boyle Says:

She Wants No Love Spoon

NEW YORK (AP)—Few visitors arriving in New York by ship bother to bring along their own lifeboat anymore.

But Miss Janet Jones, a young lass from Wales, did. Stepping ashore clad in a red cloak, an 18th Century style Welsh dress and a high-topped black beaver hat, she took one look at busy Manhattan and exclaimed:

"Aeth a fy ngwunt i fwrdd yn."

This, as any Welshman would grasp instantly, meant:

"It takes my breath away; everything moves so fast!"

Miss Jones, a name as common in Wales as Kim in Korea or Smith in America, won over 1,100 other contestants to become the national hostess of Wales. She is here for a seven-week, coast-to-coast goodwill tour. With her she brought a corgi, a coracle, a collection of wooden love spoons, a black Bible made from a block of coal, a 5½-foot harp, and a walking stick which once belonged to the Welsh statesman, David Lloyd George.

The corgi turned out to be an underslung, mystified, homesick lady dog named Ceri, and pronounced "Kerry."

"The word corgi means cur or mongrel," explained Janet, who is 21, pretty, auburn-haired and blue eyed.

"The corgi has been honored in Wales since Howell the Good passed a law in 916 exempting the breed from taxes because they kept the pastures free of lurking wild animals. The corgi has been adopted by the British royal family. It is now the "Fala' of Buckingham Palace."

The coracle turned out to be an ancient type Welsh boat made of wicker and cowhide, so light even a girl could pack it on her back.

This is believed to be the first coracle ever brought to the United States.

Now about those wooden love spoons?

"In the old time," said Janet, "instead of giving the girl of his choice an engagement ring, a Welsh boy would come to her with a spoon he had carved. The more beautiful the carving, the more he loved her.

"If she accepted the spoon, they were engaged. That is where the term 'spooning' came from. If she turned down the spoon, it was love's labor lost.

"Very occasionally the old custom is still followed. It is much easier today to buy an engagement ring. But I'd much rather have a love spoon myself."

However, Janet made it quite clear she expects no love spoon on this trip.

"I'll be much too busy to look for a husband," she said, "and it's him that should be doing the looking anyway."

Miss Jones, daughter of a Presbyterian minister, comes from a tiny Welsh village only 50 miles from the town with the longest name in the world. It is:

"Llanfairpwll - gwynngyllgo - gerych-wyrndro -bwllllan tysilliogogoch."

Miss Jones, believe it or not, can pronounce this in less than five seconds from a standing start.

"In English," she said, "it means 'St. Mary's Church, in a hollow of white hazel, close to a rapid whirlpool and St. Tysilio's Church, and near a red cave.'

Even so, after all these centuries, the town still has a population of only 1,200.

Witness Admits Testimony False

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Marie Natvig of Miami Beach, Fla., swore yesterday that she had testified falsely in connecting publisher Edward Lamb of Toledo with communism.

She told a communications commission hearing that a commission lawyer, Walter B. Powell Jr., had "coerced" her into giving such testimony last fall.

Mrs. Natvig testified last October about her personal knowledge of Lamb's connections with communism in the 1930s.

Her statements were made at a commission inquiry into allegations Lamb once associated with Communists and gave them money. Lamb denies he ever did and has called the hearing a frameup.

Slayer Of Boy, 16, Still Being Sought

McCONNELSVILLE (AP)—The killer of 16-year-old Kenneth Strohl was still the object of intensive search today as Morgan County Sheriff S. A. McConnell worked in cooperation with experts from the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

Dr. A. A. Coulson, county coroner, ruled that the Jan. 5 fatal shooting of the boy was homicide.

An orphan who lived with relatives, Strohl died from a .22 caliber bullet wound in his abdomen.

The sheriff said Raymond Sloan, the boy's uncle, owned the rifle found 25 feet from the body.

Ohio's Prison Population At All-Time High

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio's prison population soared to an all-time high last week, and M. C. Koblentz, chief of the Division of Correction, described the state's penal housing problem as "critical."

Koblentz said Ohio's maximum security prisons were bulging with 10,329 inmates, a new record of the state, on Feb. 2.

He said the Ohio Penitentiary and its branches was jammed with 5,192 inmates, a record number for the institution that has a capacity of 2,500.

"There is no immediate hope that this high prison population is abating since most county jails report they are filled to capacity," Koblentz said.

The correction chief said 25 men at the penitentiary were transferred to the London Prison Farm yesterday and that more transfers later this week to other installations would effect about 50 inmates.

The London Prison Farm's population will jump to 1,920, Koblentz said the capacity of this institution is 1,925.

Koblentz reported temporary facilities at the Marion Training school were now handling 154 inmates. Twenty additional men will be transferred to that institution this week. Marion has a capacity of around 165-170 men.

The United States Military Academy at West Point was the first engineering school in the country.

Even the bumps are smoother in the '55 Buick ride

HOTTEST BUICK IN HISTORY
No wonder you see so many 1955 Buicks on the highways—they're rolling up bigger sales than ever in history—topping the popularity that has already made Buick one of the "Big Three."

To be completely honest—there are some bumps which nothing will level out completely.

Yet even the real rough ones turn out a lot smoother when you take them in a 1955 Buick.

And that's not just our say-so. New owners of these bright new beauties keep telling us that.

So you may wonder—how come? What's different about the Buick ride that makes it such a marvel?

The answer is—plenty.

Most cars have coil springs on front wheels only. Buick has them all around—and this year they're newly calibrated for even deeper smothering of jounce and jar. So here your ride is balanced, buoyant, level, serenely smooth.

Most cars drive through the rear springs. Buick drives through a torque-tube that takes up all driving thrust, wipes out rear-wheel wiggle and wag, steadies your going to a sure and solid track.

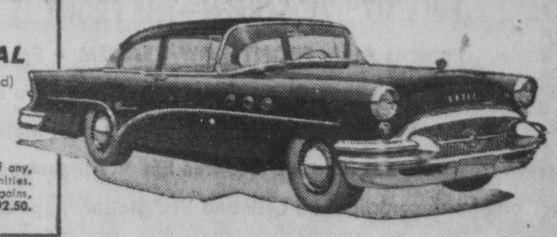

And no other car in all America has these great comfort extras plus the backbone of a massive X-braced frame plus both direct and lever-type shock absorbers to snub after-bounce plus a special front-end geometry to stabilize "cornering" plus tubeless tires on extra-wide rims for softer riding and greater stability.

Surely, you owe it to yourself to try this great Buick travel, just to judge things for yourself.

You'll find it the nearest thing to velvet on wheels—and made even more so by the silkiness of record-high V8 power and the absolute smoothness of new Variable Pitch Dynaflow.* Come visit us this week—for sure.

*Dynaflow Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Hal Boyle Says:

She Wants No Love Spoon

NEW YORK (AP)—Few visitors arriving in New York by ship bother to bring along their own lifeboat anymore.

But Miss Janet Jones, a young lass from Wales, did. Stepping ashore clad in a red cloak, an 18th Century style Welsh dress and a high-topped black beaver hat, she took one look at busy Manhattan and exclaimed:

"Aeth a fy ngwun: i fwrdd yn."

This, as any Welshman would grasp instantly, meant:

"It takes my breath away; everything moves so fast!"

Miss Jones, a name as common in Wales as Kim in Korea or Smith in America, won over 1,100 other contestants to become the national hostess of Wales. She is here for a seven-week, coast-to-coast goodwill tour. With her she brought a corgi, a coracle, a collection of wooden love spoons, a black Bible made from a block of coal, a 5½-foot harp, and a walking stick which once belonged to the Welsh statesman, David Lloyd George.

The corgi turned out to be an underslung, mystified, homesick lady dog named Ceri, and pronounced "Kerry."

"The word corgi means cur or mongrel," explained Janet, who is 21, pretty, auburn-haired and blue eyed.

"The corgi has been honored in Wales since Howell the Good passed a law in 916 exempting the breed from taxes because they kept the pastures free of lurking wild animals. The corgi has been adopted by the British royal family. It is now the "Fala' of Buckingham Palace."

The coracle turned out to be an ancient type Welsh boat made of wicker and cowhide, so light even a girl could pack it on her back.

This is believed to be the first coracle ever brought to the United States.

Now about those wooden love spoons?

"In the old time," said Janet, "instead of giving the girl of his choice an engagement ring, a Welsh boy would come to her with a spoon he had carved. The more beautiful the carving, the more he loved her.

"If she accepted the spoon, they were engaged. That is where the term 'spooning' came from. If she turned down the spoon, it was love's labor lost.

"Very occasionally the old custom is still followed. It is much easier today to buy an engagement ring. But I'd much rather have a love spoon myself."

However, Janet made it quite clear she expects no love spoon on this trip.

"I'll be much too busy to look for a husband," she said, "and it's him that should be doing the looking anyway."

Miss Jones, daughter of a Presbyterian minister, comes from a tiny Welsh village only 50 miles from the town with the longest name in the world. It is:

"Llanfairpwll - gwyngyllgo - gerych-wyrndro -bwllllan tysilliogogoch."

Miss Jones, believe it or not, can pronounce this in less than five seconds from a standing start.

"In English," she said, "it means 'St. Mary's Church, in a hollow of white hazel, close to a rapid whirlpool and St. Tysilio's Church, and near a red cave.'

Even so, after all these centuries, the town still has a population of only 1,200.

Witness Admits Testimony False

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Marie Natvig of Miami Beach, Fla., swore yesterday that she had testified falsely in connecting publisher Edward Lamb of Toledo with communism.

She told a communications commission hearing that a commission lawyer, Walter B. Powell Jr., had "coerced" her into giving such testimony last fall.

Mrs. Natvig testified last October about her personal knowledge of Lamb's connections with communism in the 1930s.

Her statements were made at a commission inquiry into allegations Lamb once associated with Communists and gave them money. Lamb denies he ever did and has called the hearing a frameup.

Freshman Class News:

The freshmen collected $53 for the March of Dimes on the night of the Walnut Homecoming Game against Ashville. The class extends thanks to all who contributed.

Carolyn Tussing was the freshman attendant for the Homecoming Queen, Carole Hoover.

Two freshmen were on the "A" honor roll for the third six-weeks period—Barbara Chaffin and Don Forquer.

The freshmen are sponsoring a skating party Friday night at Amanda, starting at 7 p. m.

CIRCLEVILLE HIGH

Junior English classes are now concentrating on reading American novels. Each student must read two.

February 16 a paper is due, comparing the two novels each pupil studied.

Mrs. Annette Will, English instructor, chose certain people to give an oral report. These students are excused from writing the comparison.

Physical Education classes this six-weeks period are concentrating on tumbling, in both boys' and girls' classes. Students are learning the fundamentals of correct tumbling.

They learn in the beginning to turn a correct somersault and when they have mastered this, they move on to more difficult things.

Miss Patty Davis, girls' physical education instructor, reports that both girls and boys have responded very nicely to this activity.

The Circleville High School Parent-Teachers Association donated $50 to the high school. The money will purchase a set of film slides for the agriculture and science classes, and an album of Spanish language records.

Miss Walters, our Spanish teacher, believes that the latter will be a valuable aid in teaching the correct pronunciations.

Many seniors breathed easier this week and they had good reason. Miss Walters, civics teacher, put the civics term papers on display in the library Thursday. She said she is pleased with the work done by the group.

The English Merit Society will present its annual assembly February 23. Along with the school magazine, "Hi-Notes", the honor club sponsors an assembly once a year for the student body.

Famous historical Americans will be the theme of this year's production. Elizabeth Musser will deliver the introduction after which Larry Wing, Donna Mitchell, and Juliann Smith will act as readers for poems concerning the historical characters.

Each member of the group has been assigned a duty to perform in connection with various figures participating. Costumes and outfits must be secured for each of the players.

Through previous preparation, each character will sport seemingly authentic clothing of his period. Jane Wallace, chairman, and Margie Magill, Mary Jo Smith, and Anne Stocklen comprise the stage crew.

Circleville High School's winning motto this year is, "Be What You Seem To Be".

It was the pick of the 70-member senior class.

Seniors also chose their class colors and flower for the year 1955. The flower is the aster. The colors, which go along with the flower, are heavenly blue and white.

Tribunal Frees Chillicothean, 29

CHILLICOTHE (AP)—A three judge court yesterday returned a verdict of acquittal in the second degree manslaughter trial of Don Kear, 29, real estate man. He was accused of responsibility in the traffic death Nov. 27 of Mrs. Rosemary Shamblin Reynolds, 19, Columbus, a bride of two weeks.

A car driven by Kear and another driven by Gary Reynolds, husband of the victim, collided near Chillicothe.

The defense claimed a mechanical falure caused the accident.

Dem Chief Says '56 Looks Very Good

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul M. Butler, new Democratic national chairman, thinks his party's chances of winning the presidency and retaining control of Congress in 1956 "look exceedingly good."

After a 'get acquainted" meeting with 25 Democratic senators yesterday, Butler said:

"I think the people will be behind us because they want government in the interest of the general public instead of government in the interest of special interests that the Republicans are giving them."

Trumbull Election Dispute Settled

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court has dismissed a manlamus action by Frank A. Cickelli to compel Secretary of State Ted W. Brown to appoint him to the Trumbull County election board.

The court acted by agreement of parties after Brown made the appointment without court order.

Brown refused to appoint Cickelli, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of Trumbull County, but later relented.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio Republican Senators Bender and Bricker yesterday voted for ratification of the Formosa defense treaty, approved by the Senate 64-6.

Both voted against two amendments to the treaty proposed by Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore). One proposal, to keep the treaty separate from the legal status of the island, was defeated, 57-11. The other, to eliminate provisions making treaty terms applicable to territories other than Formosa and the Pescadores, by mutual agreement, was rejected, 60-10.

Turnpike Killer Files New Appeal

PITTSBURGH (AP)—John Wesley Wable, convicted as the phantom slayer of the Pennsylvania Turnpike and condemned to die, has asked the state supreme court for a new trial.

A Westmoreland County court jury last March convicted Wable, 24, of Ohiopyle, Pa., of first-degree murder in the fatal shooting of Harry F. Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va., as he slept in his truck on the turnpike in July, 1953.

Wable also was indicted in the fatal shooting of another sleeping truck driver on the turnpike and the wounding of a third but was not tried in these cases.

In his appeal, Wable claimed the trial judge erred in permitting the presentation of evidence pertaining to the other two shootings.

The top speed of a race horse is about 48 miles an hour. The greyhound hits 40 miles an hour for its top speed.

Last Of Xenia Escapees Nabbed

COLUMBUS (AP)—An FBI raid on a rooming house here has netted Earl Lee Dean, 24, last of five escapees from the Greene County jail last Dec. 26.

M. W. McFarlin, agent-in-charge of the Cincinnati FBI office, said Dean was carrying the identification of a Dale Wyckoff, 24, when captured. The FBI also reported arrest of Denver Swim, 42, of Columbus, on a charge of harboring Dean.

Freshman Class News:

The freshmen collected $53 for the March of Dimes on the night of the Walnut Homecoming Game against Ashville. The class extends thanks to all who contributed.

Carolyn Tussing was the freshman attendant for the Homecoming Queen, Carole Hoover.

Two freshmen were on the "A" honor roll for the third six-weeks period—Barbara Chaffin and Don Forquer.

The freshmen are sponsoring a skating party Friday night at Amanda, starting at 7 p. m.

CIRCLEVILLE HIGH

Junior English classes are now concentrating on reading American novels. Each student must read two.

February 16 a paper is due, comparing the two novels each pupil studied.

Mrs. Annette Will, English instructor, chose certain people to give an oral report. These students are excused from writing the comparison.

Physical Education classes this six-weeks period are concentrating on tumbling, in both boys' and girls' classes. Students are learning the fundamentals of correct tumbling.

They learn in the beginning to turn a correct somersault and when they have mastered this, they move on to more difficult things.

Miss Patty Davis, girls' physical education instructor, reports that both girls and boys have responded very nicely to this activity.

The Circleville High School Parent-Teachers Association donated $50 to the high school. The money will purchase a set of film slides for the agriculture and science classes, and an album of Spanish language records.

Miss Walters, our Spanish teacher, believes that the latter will be a valuable aid in teaching the correct pronunciations.

Many seniors breathed easier this week and they had good reason. Miss Walters, civics teacher, put the civics term papers on display in the library Thursday. She said she is pleased with the work done by the group.

The English Merit Society will present its annual assembly February 23. Along with the school magazine, "Hi-Notes", the honor club sponsors an assembly once a year for the student body.

Famous historical Americans will be the theme of this year's production. Elizabeth Musser will deliver the introduction after which Larry Wing, Donna Mitchell, and Juliann Smith will act as readers for poems concerning the historical characters.

Each member of the group has been assigned a duty to perform in connection with various figures participating. Costumes and outfits must be secured for each of the players.

Through previous preparation, each character will sport seemingly authentic clothing of his period. Jane Wallace, chairman, and Margie Magill, Mary Jo Smith, and Anne Stocklen comprise the stage crew.

Circleville High School's winning motto this year is, "Be What You Seem To Be".

It was the pick of the 70-member senior class.

Seniors also chose their class colors and flower for the year 1955. The flower is the aster. The colors, which go along with the flower, are heavenly blue and white.

Boston Doge--Bright New Name Crops Up In Racing

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Nashua, the swift colt who was voted last champion juvenile and is widely regarded as most likely to succeed in the coming summer's great 3-year-old classics, was scheduled to stretch his legs as a full-grown hunk of horseflesh for the first time today in an undistinguished little race at Hialeah Park.

The purpose was not mainly to make more money for owner William Woodward, but just to make sure that the talented colt still knows his way out of a starting gate and will be ready to lay them down in the $100,000 added Flamingo Stakes two weeks from this Saturday. That is the one in which he will be asked to slap down an upstart named Boston Doge, a task at which he conceivably could find himself engaged right through next apple time.

If you never heard of Boston Doge until the past few weeks — or even up to now, for that matter — you are not alone. It seems that only a handful of New Englanders knew such a colt was alive and running until he showed up in Florida this winter and continued to work on a victory string which now has reached eight straight.

The story is that at one stage last summer Boston Doge's unproud owner Paul Andolino offered to dispose of him for $7,500 and might even have been talked down from that figure. He found no takers. Recently he was offered $100,000 cash for the same animal and didn't bother to answer. You don't sell a potential Kentucky Derby winner.

Although a record of 8-0 would appear to speak for itself pretty eloquent, the experts can't make up their minds whether the beantowner really poses an authentic threat to such as Nashua, Summer Tan and Royal Coinage in the triple crown events or merely has made the best of ordinary opposition up to this point.

As is usual, some doubt that he can go the distance and predict that Nashua will wear him out in the Flamingo over a mile and an eighth. Why it is taken for granted that Nashua, though he is the son of Nasrullah and of Mighty Heritage, can run all day while the newcomer's ability to keep going is questioned, we have not quite figured out.

The farthest Nashua was asked to go as boy champion was 6½ furlongs. That was when he beat Summer Tan by a head in the Belmont Futurity. Boston Doge went seven furlongs last week in winning the Bahamas from a field of 13. In another Hialeah race he was only two fifths off the track record for three quarters. He's never run out of oxygen yet, at any rate.

Big Ten Sees Leaders Fall In Statistics

CHICAGO (AP)—Minnesota, Illinois and Iowa may be considered the Big Ten's leading basketball title contenders, but they are far off the pace on statistics.

Minnesota, atop the standings with 6-2, is fifth in field goal percentage with .401, fourth in free throw percentage with .713 and fifth in total scoring with an average of 81.4 points per game.

The Gophers, however, head the Big Ten on defense with an average yield of 74.6 and have a top contender for individual scoring honors, Dick Garmaker, with a 26.3 average.

On the basis of averages, Ohio State's Robin Freeman is the No. 1 scorer with 27.8, Indiana's Don Schlundt No. 2 with 27.7 and Northwestern's Frank Ehmann No. 3 with 27.5. The scoring title, however, is determined on total points at the end of the season, and this all but eliminates Freeman, who has missed two games.

Illinois and Iowa, each with 5-2 records, respectively, have .401 and .413 field goal percentages and .686 and .645 ratings from the foul line.

The best shot-making team is fifth-place Northwestern (4-4) with .432 from the floor and a top average of 86.8 points per game.

Eager Youths In Key Role In Tucson Meet

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Eager youngsters are expected to play important roles in the $10,000 Tucson Open Golf Tourney starting today.

The youth movement may be helped by the aches, pains and rustiness of some of the established, consistent money winners.

The 6,409-yard, par-70 El Rio Golf and Country Club course should also help the younger lads. There isn't a hard hole in the lot, Peter Thomson of Melbourne commented. "We have courses as easy as this in Australia although we don't play tournaments on them."

Ed Furgol of St. Louis, the U.S. Open champ, has a cold and complains of pains in his chest. "I never felt so bad in my life," he said yesterday. Aches and all, Furgol will be dangerous. He shot a 6-under par 64 in the pro-amateur yesterday to win $50. So did Ed (Porky) Oliver, Lemont, Ill.

Tommy Bolt, the tempestuous Texan from Houston, is defending champ here but has had a nasty cold in his shoulder.

Lloyd Mangrum, Niles, Ill., couldn't come here because of liver trouble. He and Jimmy Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., each have won here, twice.

Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va., another former winner here and an ex-PGA champ, flew here yesterday. He is starting his first tourney of the winter. "Gosh, I'm rusty," he said.

Big League Owners Told Button Lip

NEW YORK (AP)—Restless major league owners won't be shooting their mouths off any more on a subject near and dear to their hearts—expansion. Not for a while anyway.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick made it known yesterday that he had issued a private order to that effect, stating that "minor league cities are being definitely harmed by this loose talk."

San Francisco, Los Angeles, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Toronto and Montreal have been the names most often mentioned.

NIT Gets First Tourney Entry

NEW YORK (AP)—The big grab bag is now open for the post-season college basketball tournaments and the National Invitation in Madison Square Garden has taken the initiative by plucking fourth-ranked Duquesne.

The Iron Dukes, runnersup last year to Holy Cross in the event and present holders of a 14-3 record for the season, confirmed today they would play in the Garden tournament March 12-14-15-17-19.

The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. championship gets underway with regional playoffs March 7-8 and closes with the finals at Kansas City March 18-19.

Dayton Grocer Stops Robber, 19

DAYTON (AP)—A Dayton grocer, who in 1922 killed a holdup man who tried to rob him, turned over a 19-year-old youth to police yesterday after an attempted robbery

Ben F Wood, 63, said when a youth armed with a toy cap pistol tried to rob him he pulled a gun from his own pocket and ordered the would-be robber to raise his hands. Later police booked Bobby Keith Hackney, 19, on suspicion of robbery.

Akron 'Insults' Pesky Pigeons

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Several weeks ago the City Council ordered the Health Department to exterminate by whatever means necessary the flocks of pigeons that have been plaguing downtown Akron.

Shoot them, trap them, gas them, ordered the Council.

But after criticism from the Audubon Society and other bird lovers, the Council this week rescinded its previous order and passed another ordinance which simply declares pigeons are a "common nuisance."

Maybe the pigeons will be insulted and go away, the Council said.

Stormy Weather Aids Checker Ace

HOLDREGE, Neb. (AP)—A. M. Voss, 79, Lincoln, is president of the Nebraska State Checker Assn., donor of the championship traveling trophy and current holder of the trophy.

He's been president of the association for 18 years but this is the first time he's taken home the champion's cup although he's entered tourneys since 1902. It was a wind and snow storm that partly helped him be champion. His final round opponent decided to hasten home and conceded the match.

Eager Youths In Key Role In Tucson Meet

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Eager youngsters are expected to play important roles in the $10,000 Tucson Open Golf Tourney starting today.

The youth movement may be helped by the aches, pains and rustiness of some of the established, consistent money winners.

The 6,409-yard, par-70 El Rio Golf and Country Club course should also help the younger lads. There isn't a hard hole in the lot, Peter Thomson of Melbourne commented. "We have courses as easy as this in Australia although we don't play tournaments on them."

Ed Furgol of St. Louis, the U.S. Open champ, has a cold and complains of pains in his chest. "I never felt so bad in my life," he said yesterday. Aches and all, Furgol will be dangerous. He shot a 6-under par 64 in the pro-amateur yesterday to win $50. So did Ed (Porky) Oliver, Lemont, Ill.

Tommy Bolt, the tempestuous Texan from Houston, is defending champ here but has had a nasty cold in his shoulder.

Lloyd Mangrum, Niles, Ill., couldn't come here because of liver trouble. He and Jimmy Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., each have won here, twice.

Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va., another former winner here and an ex-PGA champ, flew here yesterday. He is starting his first tourney of the winter. "Gosh, I'm rusty," he said.

Big League Owners Told Button Lip

NEW YORK (AP)—Restless major league owners won't be shooting their mouths off any more on a subject near and dear to their hearts—expansion. Not for a while anyway.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick made it known yesterday that he had issued a private order to that effect, stating that "minor league cities are being definitely harmed by this loose talk."

San Francisco, Los Angeles, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Toronto and Montreal have been the names most often mentioned.

NIT Gets First Tourney Entry

NEW YORK (AP)—The big grab bag is now open for the post-season college basketball tournaments and the National Invitation in Madison Square Garden has taken the initiative by plucking fourth-ranked Duquesne.

The Iron Dukes, runnersup last year to Holy Cross in the event and present holders of a 14-3 record for the season, confirmed today they would play in the Garden tournament March 12-14-15-17-19.

The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. championship gets underway with regional playoffs March 7-8 and closes with the finals at Kansas City March 18-19.

Dayton Grocer Stops Robber, 19

DAYTON (AP)—A Dayton grocer, who in 1922 killed a holdup man who tried to rob him, turned over a 19-year-old youth to police yesterday after an attempted robbery.

Ben F. Wood, 63, said when a youth armed with a toy cap pistol tried to rob him he pulled a gun from his own pocket and ordered the would-be robber to raise his hands. Later police booked Bobby Keith Hackney, 19, on suspicion of robbery.

Akron 'Insults' Pesky Pigeons

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Several weeks ago the City Council ordered the Health Department to exterminate by whatever means necessary the flocks of pigeons that have been plaguing downtown Akron.

Shoot them, trap them, gas them, ordered the Council.

But after criticism from the Audubon Society and other bird lovers, the Council this week rescinded its previous order and passed another ordinance which simply declares pigeons are a "common nuisance."

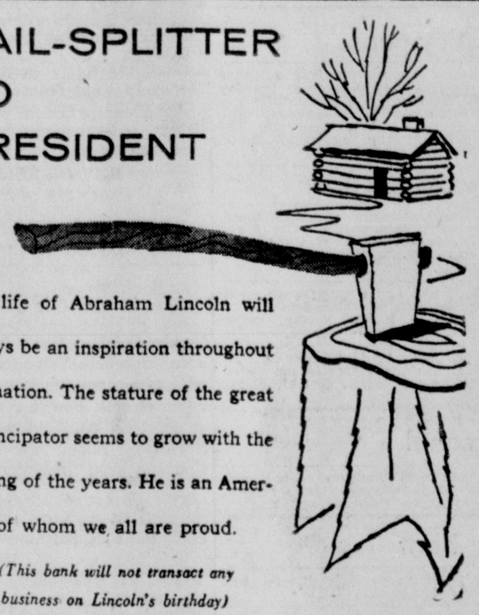

Maybe the pigeons will be insulted and go away, the Council said.

Stormy Weather Aids Checker Ace

HOLDREGE, Neb. (AP)—A. M. Voss, 79, Lincoln, is president of the Nebraska State Checker Assn., donor of the championship traveling trophy and current holder of the trophy.

He's been president of the association for 18 years but this is the first time he's taken home the champion's cup although he's entered tourneys since 1902. It was a wind and snow storm that partly helped him be champion. His final round opponent decided to hasten home and conceded the match.

RAIL-SPLITTER TO PRESIDENT

The life of Abraham Lincoln will always be an inspiration throughout this nation. The stature of the great Emancipator seems to grow with the passing of the years. He is an American of whom we all are proud.

IT'S 88 FOR '55

MAKE A DATE TO TAKE A DRIVE!

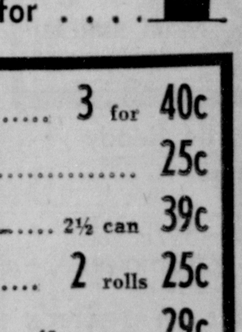

1955 Super "88" Holiday Coupé. A General Motors Value.

All New. All the way through.
powered by "Rocket" 202!

If you've driven a "Rocket" Engine Oldsmobile before—or talked with an Oldsmobile owner—you have a hint of what's waiting for you in the Super "88" for '55. But only a hint. Because this year's "Rocket"—the exciting new "Rocket" 202—tops even the famous "Rockets" of the past. We could tell you how it melts away the miles and flattens the hills. Instead, we'll let the "Rocket" do the talking. So come in soon. This "88" for '55 is even livelier than it is lovely ... and that's really something!

"Ward" Skinner Passes the Buck

When Ward Skinner makes a good buy on certain foodstuffs, he gets as excited as if Lana Turner just drove up to the store.

But does he pocket the juicy profits he makes on a good buy?

No sirree! He passes the bucks he saves right on to his customers .... and the more specials he finds the more buck-passing he does. (Here is a real buy — The C. H. S. Booster Club is serving "All The Spaghetti You Can Eat For A Buck". — See Ward For Tickets).

That's how he can dope out the money-savers you see below:

"BE IT EVER SO HUMBLE", well, it is humble, but it is a wonderful place to start, this 5 room, unmodern home. It will serve your family well. Two-Thirds of an acre to raise chickens and a garden.

"EASY DOES IT", so easy to keep this cheerful well built home clean; nice living room with picture window, three bedrooms, convenient kitchen, full basement, automatic heat.

"A HOT TIP ON A NAG", wouldn't be anymore profitable than the excellent buy you'd be gettting on this almost new bungalow. 2 bedrooms, modern kitchen and tile bath. Attached garage.

"THEY DIDN'T WANT TO DO IT", leave Circleville, that is, but a transfer came thru and consequently this 3 bedroom older home must be sold. Has large living room and dining room, Youngstown kitchen, large lot. Reasonably priced.

"DON'T OVERLOOK IT. LOOK OVER IT", large brick home, 7 rooms and bath, needs some work but sturdy construction. Could be duplexed. Priced under $10,000.

"ALMOST NEW AND PRICED RIGHT TOO", 2 bedrooms, living room, kitchen and bath, carport, on large lot, priced under $7000.

"DUPLEX", masonry construction, large living room, 23 x 13, dining area in kitchen, spacious master bedroom, also twin size bedroom, utility room, attached garage.

ALL HADES NEEDS
IS GOOD PEOPLE AND WATER
ALL that a seller needs is a BROKER and a BUYER. Some sellers are wise, some OTHERWISE. The wise call in a BROKER . . . because that is their business . . . to find a buyer ready, able and willing to purchase what you have for sale. "He who hesitates is lost," is an old saying. That is why there are so many in Hades, says the preacher. Buyers are waiting, but too many sellers are hesitating. PROFITS . . . not PROPHETS foretell the future in Real Estate. Money in Real Estate is made on "turn overs," and LOST on "hold overs."

YOU CALL—
WE'LL HAUL

"BE IT EVER SO HUMBLE", well, it is humble, but it is a wonderful place to start, this 5 room, unmodern home. It will serve your family well. Two-Thirds of an acre to raise chickens and a garden.

"EASY DOES IT", so easy to keep this cheerful well built home clean; nice living room with picture window, three bedrooms, convenient kitchen, full basement, automatic heat.

"A HOT TIP ON A NAG", wouldn't be anymore profitable than the excellent buy you'd be gettting on this almost new bungalow. 2 bedrooms, modern kitchen and tile bath. Attached garage.

"THEY DIDN'T WANT TO DO IT", leave Circleville, that is, but a transfer came thru and consequently this 3 bedroom older home must be sold. Has large living room and dining room, Youngstown kitchen, large lot. Reasonably priced.

"DON'T OVERLOOK IT. LOOK OVER IT", large brick home, 7 rooms and bath, needs some work but sturdy construction. Could be duplexed. Priced under $10,000.

"ALMOST NEW AND PRICED RIGHT TOO", 2 bedrooms, living room, kitchen and bath, carport, on large lot, priced under $7000.

"DUPLEX", masonry construction, large living room, 23 x 13, dining area in kitchen, spacious master bedroom, also twin size bedroom, utility room, attached garage.

ALL HADES NEEDS IS GOOD PEOPLE AND WATER

ALL that a seller needs is a BROKER and a BUYER. Some sellers are wise, some OTHERWISE. The wise call in a BROKER . . . because that is their business . . . to find a buyer ready, able and willing to purchase what you have for sale. "He who hesitates is lost," is an old saying. That is why there are so many in Hades, says the preacher. Buyers are waiting, but too many sellers are hesitating. PROFITS . . . not PROPHETS foretell the future in Real Estate. Money in Real Estate is made on "turn overs," and LOST on "hold overs."

Dayton, Cincy Impressive In College Wins

COLUMBUS (AP)—Dayton and Cincinnati, two of the nation's top-ranked basketball teams, each rang up victories Wednesday night as Ohio Colleges ran through a heavy nine-game schedule.

The 16th ranked Flyers of Dayton struck out to an early lead and never relinquished it for a 78-62 win over Miami, the Mid-American Conference leader.

Cincinnati's Bearcats had more trouble with Xavier, but pulled out a last-minute victory, 70-69.

Bill Uhl, Dayton's seven - foot center, dropped in 31 points, while forward Jack Twyman spearheaded hte Cincinnati victory with 22.

In three Mid-American Conference games, third-place Marshall measured Ohio University 84-74, Bowling Green edged Toledo 61-58 and Western Reserve defeated Kent State 85-76.

Reserve guard Tom Dakich pitched in 18 points for Bowling Green as the Falcons overcame a Toledo lead with less than two minutes to play. And the Western Reserve victory ended a nine-game losing streak. Dick Howard had 34 points for Reserve.

Mount Union snared its eighth Ohio Conference win in nine games, downing Ohio Wesleyan 71-64.

In non-conference action, Baldwin-Wallace had little trouble as the Yellow Jackets trounced Westminster of Pennsylvania 109-86; Heidelberg came back strong in the second half for an 80-75 triumph over Bluffton and St. Vincent walloped Youngstown 81-60.

Tarheel Crew Has 'Mostest' In Cage Race

Wolfpack Wins 20th, Scores 359 Points In Last 3 Victories

The Associated Press

It appears that if North Carolina State can't be the "fustest" among the nation's college basketball teams, the Wolfpack at least is going to try to be the team with the "mostest."

The Wolfpack, at one time No. 2 in the Associated Press poll but down to No. 7 this week, is the first team to win 20 games this season. They did it 126-99 last night against William and Mary at Norfolk, Va.

In their last three games, the Pack has scored 319 points.

There was a total of 85 field goals in the game—22 of them by Ron Shavlik of NCS. He added 11 free throws for 15 points and a new record by an Atlantic Coast Conference player. The loser's John Mahoney was away back with a mere 30.

The 126-point total by NCS—ineligible for the NCAA playoffs, incidentally, because of a probationary ban last spring, was a new high by an ACC team. Wake Forest had set the previous high only last week with 120 against Clemson.

Elsewhere, San Francisco kept its pace as the No. 1 team in the poll and the nation's defense leader with a 72-52 victory over College of the Pacific. Big (6-10) Bill Russell took charge of the boards and scored 27 points for the Dons in their 15 straight success.

Kentucky, making its first start since falling out of the No. 1 spot in this week's poll, knocked Georgia for a loop in the Southeastern Conference 86-40. The Wildcats, ranked No. 2, led 50-20 at the half and experimented the rest of the way. They're 16-2 for the season and 9-2 atop the SEC.

Fourth-ranked Duquesne, which yesterday ruled itself out of a possible NCAA at-large playoff berth by accepting an NIT bid, choked off Carnegie Tech 62-27. It was a gentlemanly game. Tech committed three fouls and the Dukes seven. All-America candidate Dick Ricketts was high with 16 points.

Dayton, ranked No. 16, got ahead early and stayed there to defeat Miami (Ohio) 78-62 with 7-foot Bill Uhl tapping in 31 points. And Cincinnati (No. 17) called on Jack Twyman for its last five points to edge Xavier (Ohio) 70-69.

A pair of upsets popped up. Georgetonw (N. C.), which lost four players in training rules trouble last week, knocked off 19th ranked Villanova 84-79 as Ray Mazza scored five points in the closing minutes to stand off a Villanova rally. In the Southwest Conference Southern Methodist surprised Texas Christian 84-70.

It was the first SMU success against the Horned Frogs since 1949, but TCU still held on to the league lead over the runnerup Mustangs. Jim Krebs, 6-8, SMU center, held TCU's Dick O'Neal, among the nation's scoring leaders, to 15 points while collecting 25 himself.

In other conference games, Duke gained a share of the ACC lead with Maryland and North Carolina by beatng Wake Forest 75-73 on Ronnie Mayer's field goal with 17 seconds left; and Richmond fattened its Southern Conference lead 76-54 over Virginia Military.

Lexington's Red Mile Rated As Nation's Fastest Track

COLUMBUS — Lexington's famed "Red Mile," unofficially recognized for many years as the world's fastest harness racing track, today was officially identified as such by the U. S. Trotting Association.

In surveying the first and most important group of tracks to which speed ratings will be assigned under its new classification system, the USTA rated Lexington at 2:02 against a norm of 2:05 for the standard mile distance.

The nation's fastest half - mile tracks, each of them rated at exactly 2:05, are Roosevelt Raceway and Saratoga Raceway in New York State and the county fair track at Delaware, home of the Little Brown Jug.

The new USTA classification system provides that horses must be advanced or backed up in class on the basis of comparative track speed when they move from one place to another. This necessitated the survey, the first phase of which covers all parimutuel and Grand Circuit ovals. Speed ratings for more than 400 county fair tracks will be assigned soon.

The new system, which assigns horses to racing classes according to actual times registered in races, should prove a boon to the general public which will now be able to compare performances more accurately.

In preparing the ratings, USTA officials worked many thousands of samples, tracing the progress of individual horses from track to track throughout the season. In addition, tracks were cross-linked by means of three and four cornered comparisons.

One of the surprising features of the survey was the fact that no half mile raceway varied more than two full seconds from any other. The slowest rating was 2:07 assigned to Jackson (Mich.) and Freehold (N. J.) Raceways. In unofficial comparisons offered the public in the past, greater differences between the fastest and slowest tracks had been indicated.

"The study proved conclusively to us," said Don R. Millar, USTA executive vice president, "that it is principally the class of horses, not the condition of the track itself, which makes some appear so much slower than others."

The nation's second fastest track is one of its newest, Vernon Downs, a three quarter mile oval at Vernon, N. Y., which opened in 1953. It was assigned a rating of 2:02.3.

Speed ratings for all tracks will be published in official racing programs this year. In cases where tracks are resurfaced, the USTA will make an immediate re-survey to determine if the speed rating should be changed.

The official speed ratings of the tracks surveyed to date, as tabulated against a norm of 2:05, includes three half-mile tracks other than Delaware in Ohio. They are: Painesville Raceway 2:06; Grandview Oval at Solon 2:06.2; and Hilliards Raceway 2:06.4.

Frisco Defenses Showing Value

NEW YORK (AP)—In an era where college basketball teams often score 100 and more points in a game without batting an eye, San Francisco is proof that defense isn't a lost art.

The Dons, first in the Associated Press weekly rankings, lead the nation in defense. They've allowed the opposition an average of 49.9 points a game in 17 outings.

To point up the importance of defensive tactics, Furman, a team which is out of sight in the ratings, tops the scoring parade with a 95.9 average output.

Baker Collects Second Round KO

BALTIMORE (AP)—Bob Baker, the Pittsburgh giant with the fragile hands, knocked out Willie James last night.

Baker swatted James into what could be fistic oblivion in 2:50 of the second round. It was mostly James in the first round. The Bay State youngster kept Baker's head in motion with well-placed lefts. However, in the second round, Baker took command right after the opening bell. It was a series of right hand punches that finished the brief affair.

Leading Cincy Sportsman Dies

CINCINNATI (AP)—Frank Y. Grayson, who as baseball writer for the Cincinnati Times-Star covered the Cincinnati Redlegs for more than a quarter of a century, died at his home here yesterday.

Grayson, who was 82, was stricken with a heart attack as he was trimming some grass at his home. He had retired from the Times-Star in 1953.

He gave up the baseball writing job two years before that.

At the time he retired he was the senior major league baseball writer in point of age.

Dayton, Cincy Impressive In College Wins

COLUMBUS (AP)—Dayton and Cincinnati, two of the nation's top-ranked basketball teams, each rang up victories Wednesday night as Ohio Colleges ran through a heavy nine-game schedule.

The 16th ranked Flyers of Dayton struck out to an early lead and never relinquished it for a 78-62 win over Miami, the Mid-American Conference leader.

Cincinnati's Bearcats had more trouble with Xavier, but pulled out a last-minute victory, 70-69.

Bill Uhl, Dayton's seven - foot center, dropped in 31 points, while forward Jack Twyman spearheaded hte Cincinnati victory with 22.

In three Mid-American Conference games, third-place Marshall measured Ohio University 84-74, Bowling Green edged Toledo 61-58 and Western Reserve defeated Kent State 85-76.

Reserve guard Tom Dakich pitched in 18 points for Bowling Green as the Falcons overcame a Toledo lead with less than two minutes to play. And the Western Reserve victory ended a nine-game losing streak. Dick Howard had 34 points for Reserve.

Mount Union snared its eighth Ohio Conference win in nine games, downing Ohio Wesleyan 71-64.

In non-conference action, Baldwin-Wallace had little trouble as the Yellow Jackets trounced Westminster of Pennsylvania 109-86; Heidelberg came back strong in the second half for an 80-75 triumph over Bluffton and St. Vincent walloped Youngstown 81-60.

Tarheel Crew Has 'Mostest' In Cage Race

Wolfpack Wins 20th, Scores 359 Points In Last 3 Victories

The Associated Press

It appears that if North Carolina State can't be the "fustest" among the nation's college basketball teams, the Wolfpack at least is going to try to be the team with the "mostest."

The Wolfpack, at one time No. 2 in the Associated Press poll but down to No. 7 this week, is the first team to win 20 games this season. They did it 126-99 last night against William and Mary at Norfolk, Va.

In their last three games, the Pack has scored 319 points.

There was a total of 85 field goals in the game—22 of them by Ron Shavlik of NCS. He added 11 free throws for 15 points and a new record by an Atlantic Coast Conference player. The loser's John Mahoney was away back with a mere 30.

The 126-point total by NCS—ineligible for the NCAA playoffs, incidentally, because of a probationary ban last spring, was a new high by an ACC team. Wake Forest had set the previous high only last week with 120 against Clemson.

Elsewhere, San Francisco kept its pace as the No. 1 team in the poll and the nation's defense leader with a 72-52 victory over College of the Pacific. Big (6-10) Bill Russell took charge of the boards and scored 27 points for the Dons in their 15 straight success.

Kentucky, making its first start since falling out of the No. 1 spot in this week's poll, knocked Georgia for a loop in the Southeastern Conference 86-40. The Wildcats, ranked No. 2, led 50-20 at the half and experimented the rest of the way. They're 16-2 for the season and 9-2 atop the SEC.

Fourth-ranked Duquesne, which yesterday ruled itself out of a possible NCAA at-large playoff berth by accepting an NIT bid, choked off Carnegie Tech 62-27. It was a gentlemanly game. Tech committed three fouls and the Dukes seven. All-America candidate Dick Ricketts was high with 16 points.

Dayton, ranked No. 16, got ahead early and stayed there to defeat Miami (Ohio) 78-62 with 7-foot Bill Uhl tapping in 31 points. And Cincinnati (No. 17) called on Jack Twyman for its last five points to edge Xavier (Ohio) 70-69.

A pair of upsets popped up. Georgetonw (N. C.), which lost four players in training rules trouble last week, knocked off 19th ranked Villanova 84-79 as Ray Mazza scored five points in the closing minutes to stand off a Villanova rally. In the Southwest Conference Southern Methodist surprised Texas Christian 84-70.

It was the first SMU success against the Horned Frogs since 1949, but TCU still held on to the league lead over the runnerup Mustangs. Jim Krebs, 6-8, SMU center, held TCU's Dick O'Neal, among the nation's scoring leaders, to 15 points while collecting 25 himself.

In other conference games, Duke gained a share of the ACC lead with Maryland and North Carolina by beatng Wake Forest 75-73 on Ronnie Mayer's field goal with 17 seconds left; and Richmond fattened its Southern Conference lead 76-54 over Virginia Military.

Leading Cincy Sportsman Dies

CINCINNATI (AP)—Frank Y. Grayson, who as baseball writer for the Cincinnati Times-Star covered the Cincinnati Redlegs for more than a quarter of a century, died at his home here yesterday.

Grayson, who was 82, was stricken with a heart attack as he was trimming some grass at his home. He had retired from the Times-Star in 1953.

He gave up the baseball writing job two years before that.

At the time he retired he was the senior major league baseball writer in point of age.

Lexington's Red Mile Rated As Nation's Fastest Track

COLUMBUS — Lexington's famed "Red Mile," unofficially recognized for many years as the world's fastest harness racing track, today was officially identified as such by the U. S. Trotting Association.

In surveying the first and most important group of tracks to which speed ratings will be assigned under its new classification system, the USTA rated Lexington at 2:02 against a norm of 2:05 for the standard mile distance.

The nation's fastest half - mile tracks, each of them rated at exactly 2:05, are Roosevelt Raceway and Saratoga Raceway in New York State and the county fair track at Delaware, home of the Little Brown Jug.

The new USTA classification system provides that horses must be advanced or backed up in class on the basis of comparative track speed when they move from one place to another. This necessitated the survey, the first phase of which covers all parimutuel and Grand Circuit ovals. Speed ratings for more than 400 county fair tracks will be assigned soon.

The new system, which assigns horses to racing classes according to actual times registered in races, should prove a boon to the general public which will now be able to compare performances more accurately.

In preparing the ratings, USTA officials worked many thousands of samples, tracing the progress of individual horses from track to track throughout the season. In addition, tracks were cross-linked by means of three and four cornered comparisons.

One of the surprising features of the survey was the fact that no half mile raceway varied more than two full seconds from any other. The slowest rating was 2:07 assigned to Jackson (Mich.) and Freehold (N. J.) Raceways. In unofficial comparisons offered the public in the past, greater differences between the fastest and slowest tracks had been indicated.

"The study proved conclusively to us," said Don R. Millar, USTA executive vice president, "that it is principally the class of horses, not the condition of the track itself, which makes some appear so much slower than others."

The nation's second fastest track is one of its newest, Vernon Downs, a three quarter mile oval at Vernon, N. Y., which opened in 1953. It was assigned a rating of 2:02.3.

Speed ratings for all tracks will be published in official racing programs this year. In cases where tracks are resurfaced, the USTA will make an immediate re-survey to determine if the speed rating should be changed.

The official speed ratings of the tracks surveyed to date, as tabulated against a norm of 2:05, includes three half-mile tracks other than Delaware in Ohio. They are: Painesville Raceway 2:06; Grandview Oval at Solon 2:06.2; and Hilliards Raceway 2:06.4.

Frisco Defenses Showing Value

NEW YORK (AP)—In an era where college basketball teams often score 100 and more points in a game without batting an eye, San Francisco is proof that defense isn't a lost art.

The Dons, first in the Associated Press weekly rankings, lead the nation in defense. They've allowed the opposition an average of 49.9 points a game in 17 outings.

To point up the importance of defensive tactics, Furman, a team which is out of sight in the ratings, tops the scoring parade with a 95.9 average output.

Baker Collects Second Round KO

BALTIMORE (AP)—Bob Baker, the Pittsburgh giant with the fragile hands, knocked out Willie James last night.

Baker swatted James into what could be fistic oblivion in 2:50 of the second round. It was mostly James in the first round. The Bay State youngster kept Baker's head in motion with well-placed lefts. However, in the second round, Baker took command right after the opening bell. It was a series of right hand punches that finished the brief affair.
